Psychiatric Nursing Revisited The Care Provided For Acute Psychiatric Patients:

Psychiatric Nursing Revisited Ray Higgins, Keith Hurst, Gerald Wistow, 2011-04-26 Psychiatric Nursing Revisited is a detailed and empirical study of acute mental health nursing and patient activity that joins a family of similar successful studies such as Altschul 1972 Towell 1975 Cormack 1976 1983 Faulkner et al 1994 and Hurst 1993 1995 The far ranging recommendations made by the authors based on their findings make this book an essential resource for all those who nurse manage or teach in the field of psychiatric nursing

The Use of Coercive Measures in Forensic Psychiatric Care Birgit Völlm, Norbert Nedopil, 2016-05-02 This book presents the legal context and describes the ethical and practical challenges when using coercive measures in forensic psychiatric settings A wide range of aspects relevant to the use of such measures including environmental patient related and staff related factors are explored and the experience of coercive interventions is described from the staff and the patient perspective Differences in jurisdictions and examples of good practice are highlighted The authors are from a range of professional backgrounds ensuring breadth as well as depth in discussion of the topic The use of coercive measures in particular restraint seclusion and involuntary medication for the control of aggression in psychiatry remains controversial Forensic mental health care deals with individuals who pose a risk to others and often present with significant management problems within institutions The care of patients in these settings gives rise to debates about the balance between care and safety and between the interests of the patients and those of the wider society to be protected Despite these tensions limited research has been conducted specifically on the use of coercive measures in forensic mental health care This volume aims to fill the gap and will be of value to all professionals working in forensic psychiatric settings as well as to those working in general psychiatric and custodial settings law professionals and patients

Acute Mental Health Nursing Marc Harrison, Damian Mitchell, David Howard, 2004-05-18 This is an exciting and timely contribution to the resources available for policy makers and practitioners wishing to improve standards and health and social outcomes in inpatient care within the context of community oriented comprehensive care for people with mental illness Professor Rachel Jenkins Director WHO Collaborating Centre Institute of Psychiatry Kings College London This book is a valuable addition to the growing literature on acute care and should provide great encouragement to the frontline staff in this area By bringing together this range of excellent material the editors have also been able to produce a book which addresses the most thorny problems which face most frontline staff for much of their working day From the Foreword by Professor Kevin Gournay CBE Health Services Research Department Institute of Psychiatry Inpatient mental health care has had a rough ride in recent years Its shortcomings have been highlighted while policy emphasis and cash have been directed to community services This very welcome book reminds us that inpatient care and treatment are an essential element in the spectrum of mental health services and shows how they can be re thought and fine tuned in ethos practice and training for the benefit of service users staff and the wider community It deserves a wide readership John Bowis MEP former

Health Minister for Mental Health By concentrating on describing the skills of practitioners the editors and authors of Acute Mental Health Nursing have developed a unique resource for both students and practitioners of acute inpatient care Their no nonsense evidence based approach will be an invaluable aid to developing practical responses to this important though challenging area of mental health practice Richard Bradshaw Director of Nursing Prison Health Department of Health England formerly Professional Office Mental Health and Learning Disabilities Nursing UKCC Comprehensively tackles a range of key issues that the student or advanced practitioner in acute mental health nursing will face I recommend this book which will provide a useful resource for anyone interested in this important area of nursing Journal of Community Nursing Recent mental health policy has focused on developing community based services while the reality remains that patients experiencing acute episodes of illness are mainly cared for in hospital Acute Mental Health Nursing has been developed as a guide to the core knowledge and skills required for working in inpatient settings Bringing together a vastly experienced and multi professional team of contributors the book covers core areas of practice including assessment risk management case management and integrated care pathways observation cognitive behavioural therapy psycho social interventions medication management user involvement social inclusion measurement of health and social functioning Drawing on the latest developments in policy and planning Acute Mental Health Nursing addresses issues which are specific to working in inpatient settings It has been designed for use in training and is also an excellent source of reference for use in practice

Voices in the History of Madness Robert Ellis, Sarah Kendal, Steven J. Taylor, 2021-05-12 This book presents new perspectives on the multiplicity of voices in the histories of mental ill health In the thirty years since Roy Porter called on historians to lower their gaze so that they might better understand patient doctor roles in the past historians have sought to place the voices of previously silent marginalised and disenfranchised individuals at the heart of their analyses Today the development of service user groups and patient consultations have become an important feature of the debates and planning related to current approaches to prevention care and treatment This edited collection of interdisciplinary chapters offers new and innovative perspectives on mental health and illness in the past and covers a breadth of opinions views and interpretations from patients practitioners policy makers family members and wider communities Its chronology runs from the early modern period to the twenty first century and includes international and transnational analyses from Europe North America Asia and Africa drawing on a range of sources and methodologies including oral histories material culture and the built environment Chapter 4 is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License via link.springer.com Sites of Conscience Elisabeth Punzi, Linda Steele, 2024-03-15 Into the twenty first century millions of disabled people and people experiencing mental distress were segregated from the rest of society and confined to residential institutions Deinstitutionalization the closure of these sites and integration of former residents into the community has become increasingly commonplace But this project is unfinished Sites of Conscience explores use of the concept of sites of conscience which involves place based memory activities such as walking tours survivor authored social histories and performances and artistic works in or generated from sites of systemic suffering and injustice These activities offer new ways to move forward from the unfinished deinstitutionalization project and its failures Covering diverse national contexts this volume proposes that acknowledging the memories and lived experiences of former residents and keeping histories and social heritage of institutions alive rather than simply closing sites holds the greatest potential for recognition accountability and action
