Reflections From A Psychologist An Autobiography:

Reflections from a Psychologist A. Keith Barton, 2002-10-01 The author minces few words in describing his early childhood and reasons for becoming a psychologist This book should resonate with the boomers who are now in their fifties and approaching retirement The extensive training in becoming a clinical psychologist is described in highly defined visual sequences that follow the author through college graduate school internship and postdoctoral training Patient stories bring the reader inside the therapist's office to listen to the remarkable people brave enough to come to therapy to seek meaning and stability in their lives A touching account of one psychologist's struggle to address the two most important questions of our existence who are we and why are we here

Descartes's thinking and the evolution of the third force humanistic psychology Undergraduate students of psychology and related fields will find the book invaluable in their pursuit of knowledge Jung's Wandering Archetype Carrie B. Dohe, 2016-07-01 Is the Germanic god Wotan/Odin really an archaic archetype of the Spirit? Was the Third Reich at first a collective individuation process? After Friedrich Nietzsche heralded the death of God, might the divine have been reborn as a collective form of self-redemption on German soil and in the Germanic soul? In Jung's Wandering Archetype, Carrie Dohe presents a study of Jung's writings on Germanic psychology from 1912 onwards, exploring the links between his views on religion and race and providing his perspective on the answers to these questions. Dohe demonstrates how Jung's view of Wotan as an archetype of the collective Germanic psyche was created from a combination of an ancient discourse on the Germanic barbarian and modern theories of primitive religion and how he further employed völkisch ideology and various colonialist discourses to contrast hypothesized Germanic, Jewish, and primitive psychologies. He saw Germanic psychology as dangerous yet vital, promising rebirth and rejuvenation, and compared Wotan to the Pentecostal Spirit, suggesting that the Germanic psyche contained the necessary tension to birth a new collective psycho-spiritual attitude. In racializing his religiously inflected psychological theory, Jung combined religious and scientific discourses in a particularly seductive way, masterfully weaving together the objective language of science with the eternal language of myth. Dohe concludes the book by examining the use of these ideas in modern Germanic religion, in which members claim that religion is a matter of race. This in-depth study of Jung's views on psychology, race, and spirituality will be fascinating reading for all academics and students of Jungian and post-Jungian studies, religious studies, and the history of religion The American Psychologist, 2001 Includes proceedings of the 54th, 55th annual meetings of the association, 1946-47, and proceedings of meetings of various regional psychological associations Integrating Faith and Psychology Glendon L. Moriarty, 2010-08-21 Twelve notable psychologists relate their journeys as Christians who entered the field of psychology. They provide personal reflections on their spiritual, personal, and professional journeys of interrelating their faith and profession. These stories inform, inspire, and encourage us, especially those who are in the caregiving professions Handbook of Autobiography / Autofiction Martina Wagner-Egelhaaf, 2019-01-29 Autobiographical writings have been a major cultural genre from antiquity to the present time. General questions of the literary, as e.g. the relation between literature and reality, truth and fiction, the dependency of author, narrator, and figure, or issues of individual and cultural styles etc. can be studied preeminently in the autobiographical genre. Yet the tradition of life writing has in the course of literary history developed manifold types and forms. Especially in the globalized age, where the media and other technological-cultural factors contribute to a rapid transformation of lifestyles, autobiographical writing has maintained even enhanced its popularity and importance. By conceiving autobiography in a wide sense that includes memoirs, diaries, self-portraits, and autofiction, as well as media transformations of the genre, this three-volume handbook offers a comprehensive survey of theoretical approaches.

systematic aspects and historical developments in an international and interdisciplinary perspective While autobiography is usually considered to be a European tradition special emphasis is placed on the modes of self representation in non Western cultures and on inter and transcultural perspectives of the genre The individual contributions are closely interconnected by a system of cross references The handbook addresses scholars of cultural and literary studies students as well as non academic readers
