Regia Marina Italian Battleships Of World War Two:

Regia Marina Erminio Bagnasco, Mark M. Grossman, 1986 Italian Battleships of World War II Mark Stille, 2011-08-20
Italy's navy the Regia Marina was the fourth largest naval force in the world at the outbreak of World War II and yet is often overlooked and largely discounted as ineffective. In general the fleet was made up of obsolete vessels lacking radar functionality and had a reputation for indiscipline and poorly trained crews. The complex and bureaucratic command system imposed on the fleet further hampered its effectiveness. In this book Mark Stille details why the Italian battleships were able to maintain a solid reputation examining their impressive designs and the courage and determination of the fleet at Calabria, Sirte, Cape Spartivento and Cape Matapan, all illustrated with stunning photographs from the Italian Navy's own archives.

German and Italian Aircraft Carriers of World War II Ryan K. Noppen, Douglas C. Dildy, 2022-05-26 This fully illustrated study details Germany and Italy's failed development of World War II aircraft carriers and the naval aviation ships that the two Axis powers sent into action in their place. The quest for a modern aircraft carrier was the ultimate symbol of the Axis powers' challenge to Allied naval might but fully fledged carriers proved either too difficult, expensive or politically unpopular for either to make operational. After the Anglo-German Naval Agreement of 1935 Hitler publicly stated his intention to build an aircraft carrier the Graf Zeppelin which was launched in 1938. A year later the ambitious fleet expansion Z Plan was unveiled with two additional aircraft carriers earmarked for production. However by the beginning of World War II Graf Zeppelin was not yet completed and work was halted. Further aircraft carrier designs and conversion projects such as the ocean liner Europa and heavy cruiser Seydlitz were considered but in January 1943 all construction work on surface vessels ceased and naval resources were diverted to the U-boat Campaign. This book explains not only the history of Germany's famous Graf Zeppelin fleet carrier and German carrier conversion projects but also Italy's belated attempt to convert two of her ocean liners into carriers. It considers the role of naval aviation in the two countries' rearmament programmes and describes how ultimately it was only Italian seaplane carriers and German ocean-going catapult equipped flying boat carriers that both Axis powers did eventually send into combat.

Italian Heavy Cruisers Maurizio Brescia, Augusto de Toro, 2024-01-05 A technical history of seven Italian heavy cruisers Trento Trieste Bolzano Zara Fiume Gorizia Pola a perfect companion volume to Italian Battleships When the Washington Naval Treaty of 1922 effectively banned the building of battleships competition between the major navies concentrated on the next most powerful category heavy cruisers limited to ten thousand tons displacement and eight inch guns Italy followed this trend the first design for what became Trento and Trieste being ordered in 1924 These were the fastest of the first generation Treaty cruisers but were very lightly armored and the succeeding Zara class of four ships were slower but better protected However before the final ship of this class Pola had been completed there was a return to the earlier fast lightly protected concept with the Bolzano although this ship also incorporated aspects of the Zara design The political background design history and technical features of these classes are covered in great depth in this volume They were important ships subject to incremental improvement so no two were identical and model makers will appreciate the space devoted to the variations in appearance using both description and illustration As major units of the Italian battle fleet they were more active than most during the war and their careers are fully detailed including analyses of damage suffered Tragically they were all sunk and the circumstance of each loss is explored As befits a technical history the book is thoroughly illustrated with ship and armament plans detail drawings and color camouflage schemes as well as an outstanding collection of photographs British Battleship vs Italian Battleship Mark Stille, 2020-01-23 During World War II's battle for control of the Mediterranean both the British and Italian navies planned to bring their battle fleets into play At the centre of both of these fleets was a core of battleships which both sides expected to play a decisive role in the conflict On 9 July 1940 the two navies met in the central Mediterranean as two Italian battleships faced off against three of their British counterparts Christened the Battle of Calabria the action allowed the ships to play to their strengths engaging in a long range gunnery duel the very thing they had been designed for Though both sides shot well the only hit was scored by Warspite on the Italian battleship Giulio Cesare The Italians were forced to withdraw and the action ended up being indecisive but it was the largest fleet action fought in the Mediterranean during the war As well as this battle there were other occasions during the war when both British and Italian battleships were present and influential but during which they never engaged each other directly the Battle of Spartivento on 27 November 1940 and the Battle of Cape Matapan on 28-29 March 1941 Packed with full colour artwork carefully selected archive photographs and expert analysis this title explores in detail the role played by British and Italian battleships in these encounters and their influence in the Mediterranean theatre of World War II Italian Cruisers of World War II Mark Stille, 2018-05-31 The Italian Royal Navy Regia Marina operated one of the largest cruiser forces of World War II As a signatory to the 1922 Washington Naval Treaty the Regia Marina immediately attempted to reinforce its treaty limited battleship force by building seven large 10 000 ton heavy cruisers Italian light cruisers also possessed an interesting design history and were involved in every major fleet engagement in the Mediterranean as well as several smaller encounters with units of the British Royal Navy Fully illustrated with specially commissioned artwork this fascinating volume examines the history of the Regia Marina's cruisers during World War II where they came up against the might of the British Royal Navy The War in North Africa, 1940-1943 Colin F. Baxter, 1996-03-30 Few of the major campaigns of World War II aroused as much controversy as the War in North Africa 1940-1943 Figures such as Rommel Montgomery and Eisenhower would become world famous because of the fighting in North Africa This book opens with seven historiographical essays that evaluate and critically assess the major contributions to the literature on the War in North Africa It then includes an alphabetically arranged bibliography of the 504 entries cited in the essays The material is easily accessible with cross references between the text and the bibliography and a full index The volume includes chapters on the Desert War 1940-42 the Axis Powers in North Africa Montgomery Alam Halfa and El Alamein TORCH the Landings in French North Africa and the Tunisian Campaign Full attention is given to questions and issues historians have raised on such controversies as the Auchinleck Montgomery dispute the debate over Operation TORCH and the Darlan affair Emphasis is on English language works but the most significant Italian German and French works are cited and assessed The book has been written for use in public college university and institutional libraries and to serve general readers and military historians Italian Battleships Erminio

Bagnasco, Augusto de Toro, 2022-10-04 With the publication of their previous book on the battleships of the Littorio class the authors set new standards for the detailed coverage and sophisticated analysis of Italian warship design Inspired by its success both critically and commercially the authors were inspired to follow up with a similar study of the earlier Italian battleships that were built in the First World War but survived to fight in the Second Given the level of new research required this has taken a decade to achieve but the result is a similarly comprehensive coverage Originally comprising five ships in two related classes they entered service at the beginning of the Great War As designed they were powerful examples of the second generation of dreadnoughts with a combination of twin and triple turrets producing a unique main armament of thirteen 12 inch guns One ship Leonardo da Vinci was sunk by an internal explosion at Taranto in 1916 and although the hull was raised post war the plan to rebuild the ship was abandoned as it was not deemed cost effective However the remaining four ships were to undergo one of the most radical reconstructions of any battleship class during the 1930s emerging with an entirely new profile more powerful machinery and all the characteristics of a modern fast battleship In this form they became an important element in the Italian fleet that opposed the British after 1940 This book covers all the technical details of the ships both as built and as rebuilt but also provides an extended history of their active service including battle plans and track charts Thoroughly illustrated with photographs ship and armament plans detail drawings and colour camouflage schemes the book is a fitting companion to The Littorio Class

Six Victories Vincent O'Hara, 2019-10-15 Six Victories examines one of the most interesting and instructive naval campaigns of World War II the war on traffic in the Mediterranean during the fall and winter of 1941-42 It is a cautionary tale of how sea power was practiced and how it shifted 180 degrees overnight Based on British and Italian archival sources the book emphasizes strategic context the role of intelligence and the campaign's logistics In October 1941 the British Admiralty based a surface strike force in Malta to attack Axis sea lanes between Italy and Africa Aided by Ultra intelligence submarines and bombers based in Malta this force dominated the Central Mediterranean From the end of October through the middle of December 1941 less than a third of the supplies shipped from Italian ports arrived in Libya Shortages of ammunition and fuel finally compelled the Afrika Korps to retreat four hundred miles Then in the space of thirty hours this all changed First Italian naval forces broke the blockade by fighting through a major convoy that arrived in time to blunt the British advance next the strike force plowed into a minefield laid by Italian cruisers and finally in a daring attack Italian commandos crippled the Mediterranean Fleet's battleships in port. The swing in fortune was immediate and dramatic. Six Victories breaks new ground in the historiography of World War II. A compelling story it relates lessons that are relevant today and should be required reading for all who practice the art of power at sea and for those who want to understand the intricate and interrelated factors that are the foundations of military success. Warship 2021, 2021-05-13

For over 40 years Warship has been the leading annual resource on the design, development and deployment of the world's combat ships. Featuring a broad range of articles from a select panel of distinguished international contributors, this latest volume combines original research, new book reviews, warship notes, an image gallery and much more, maintaining the impressive standards of scholarship and research for which Warship has become synonymous. Detailed and accurate information is the keynote of all the articles, which are fully supported by plans, data tables and stunning photographs. The Littorio Class

Ermingo Bagnasco, 2011-07-18. For its final battleship design, Italy ignored all treaty restrictions on tonnage and produced one of Europe's largest and most powerful capital ships, comparable with Germany's Bismarck class, similarly built in defiance of international agreements. The three ships of the Littorio class were typical of Italian design, being fast and elegant but also boasting a revolutionary protective scheme which was tested to the limits, as all three were to be heavily damaged in the hard fought naval war in the Mediterranean. Roma had the unfortunate distinction of being the first capital ship sunk by guided missile. These important ships have never been covered in depth in English language publications, but the need is now satisfied in this comprehensive and convincing study by two of Italy's leading naval historians. The book combines a detailed analysis of the design with an operational history, evaluating how the ships stood up to combat. It is illustrated with an amazing collection of photographs, many fine line plans and coloured artwork of camouflage schemes, adding up to as complete a monograph on a single class ever published. Among warship enthusiasts, battleships enjoy a unique status. As the great success of Seaforth's recent book on French battleships proves, that interest transcends national boundaries, and this superbly executed study is certain to become another classic in the field. 'Total Germany' David Wragg, 2015-10-30

The author of A Century of British Naval Aviation 1909-2009 examines the losses and successes of the Royal Navy during World War Two. On the declaration of war in 1939, the British Admiralty signaled all warships and naval bases. Total Germany. Total Germany. It was fortunate that of Germany's three armed services, the Kriegsmarine under Grosseradmiral Erich Raeder was the least well prepared. True, Admiral Karl Donitz's U-boat force was to give the Allies many anxious times, but Hitler was never comfortable or competent in his handling of naval surface forces. Total Germany is a concise yet comprehensive account of the Royal Navy's part in the war at sea and the measures taken to ensure victory. The different approaches taken by the warring countries are expertly examined. The author reviews the differing strategies and tactics of the various theatres, such as the Far East, Mediterranean, Atlantic and Arctic. Not only does it cover every major event during WWII, the author
