Mao China has been characterized in literature and the media as a burgeoning consumer society Consuming China investigates this characterization by examining the cultural significance of consumption and consumerism in the People's Republic of China today In questioning the notion of consumption this impressive work suggests that it is not simply a symptom of economic reform within China neither a product of the emergence and transformation of contemporary Chinese capitalism Rather the essays offer a new perspective on Chinese consumption by focusing on more than just consumerism looking at the practices of consumption in relation to different manifestations of social and cultural change Drawing on case

Intergenerational Justice Lukas H. Meyer,2017-05-15 The essays selected for this volume show how relations between past current and future generations have become a major subject of philosophical research since the 1970s The relations between people alive today with people who may exist in the future and people now deceased differ from relations between contemporaries and in ways that raise new conceptual logical and substantive questions Among the questions addressed in this volume are what is the status of people now deceased and people who may exist in the future Can the latter be harmed by the actions of people alive today What duties of justice do we have towards people with whom we can neither interact nor co operate and can people who are indirect victims of past injustices legitimately claim compensation Answers to these questions are relevant in a number of policy areas most notably in issues regarding reparations for historical injustice and responding to climate change and its consequences

Modernizing Aristotle's Ethics Roger Bissell,Vinay Kolhatkar,2023-11-25 Over 2 300 years ago the Ancient Greeks gave us philosophy the love of wisdom From Socrates and Epicurus to Plato and Aristotle they grappled with the big questions who are we Why are we here What is a good life How should we lead our life Later the natural sciences split away from philosophy and then the humanities did as well and fragmented into separate disciplines all of which tell us something about human nature the universal the culture specific and the individuated This ongoing process was also forwarded by supporters of Aristotle s worldview most notably Thomas Aquinas and Ayn Rand and we see much value in their neo Aristotelian philosophies too In the light of all that that the new sciences and more recent philosophers tell us about human nature and ethics is there a case for modernizing Aristotle and thinkers like Aquinas and Rand as well as against starting afresh We think so The theme of this book is to arrive at a highly practical neo Aristotelian framework to facilitate creating a meaningful life and self actualization and thereby flourishing and happiness by linking ethics as an ought with the empirical sciences that provide the is A modernized ethic can be created using current scientific knowledge and is also made easier in application by specifying the psychological nature of the human the internal or the ontology of the modern human and delineating that which is universal from that which can be individualized

The View from Here R. Jay Wallace,2018-02-06 Must we always later regret actions that were wrong for us to perform at the time Can there ever be good reason to affirm things in the past that we know were unfortunate In this original work of moral philosophy R Jay Wallace shows that the standpoint from which we look back on our lives is shaped by our present attachments to persons to the projects that imbue our lives with meaning and to life itself Through a distinctive affirmation dynamic these attachments commit us to affirming the necessary conditions of their objects The result is that we are sometimes unable to regret events and circumstances that were originally unjustified or otherwise somehow objectionable Wallace traces these themes through a range of examples A teenage girl makes an ill advised decision to conceive a child but her love for the child once it has been born makes it impossible for her to regret that earlier decision The painter Paul Gauguin abandons his family to pursue his true artistic calling and eventual life project in Tahiti which means he cannot truly regret his abdication of familial responsibility The View from Here offers new interpretations of these classic cases challenging their treatment by Bernard Williams and others Another example is the bourgeois predicament we are committed to affirming the regrettable social inequalities that make possible the expensive activities that give our lives meaning Generalizing from such situations Wallace defends the view that our attachments inevitably commit us to affirming historical conditions that we cannot regard as worthy of being affirmed a modest form of nihilism The Theosophical Path Katherine Augusta Westcott Tingley,1921 Life- A Mystery Babu, Life A Mystery is a book of hope for everyone it will tell you how to live life at apex how to get success reason for failure solution of your every problem and will definitely increase the humanity of every human STUMBLING UPON THE SPIRITUAL PATH C.
