Rethinking Islam in Europe Zekirija Sejdić, 2022-01-19 Islamic theology had to wait a long time before being granted a place in the European universities That happened above all in German speaking areas and this led to the development of new theological and religious pedagogical approaches This volume presents one such approach and discusses it from various perspectives It takes up different theological and religious pedagogical themes and reflects on them anew from the perspective of the contemporary context The primary focus is on contemporary challenges and possible answers from the perspective of Islamic theology and religious pedagogy It discusses general themes like the location of Islamic theology and religious pedagogy at secular European universities The volume also explores concrete challenges such as the extent to which Islamic religious pedagogy can be conceptualised anew how it should deal with its own theological tradition in the contemporary context and how a positive attitude towards worldview and religious plurality can be cultivated At issue here are foundations of a new interpretation of Islam that takes into account both a reflective approach to the Islamic tradition and the contemporary context In doing so it gives Muslims the opportunity to take their own thinking further Science of Religion. Studies in Methodology Lauri Honko, 2011-12-07 Since its founding by Jacques Waardenburg in 1971 Religion and Reason has been a leading forum for contributions on theories theoretical issues and agendas related to the phenomenon and the study of religion Topics include among others category formation comparison ethnophilosophy hermeneutics methodology myth phenomenology philosophy of science scientific atheism structuralism and theories of religion From time to time the series publishes volumes that map the state of the art and the history of the discipline Religion and Gender in the Developing World Tamsin Bradley, 2010-12-07 Faith based development organizations have become a central part of the lives of the women of rural Rajasthan and have come to represent an important aspect of both individual and collective identities And yet religious teachings continue to be used to exclude women from public decision making forums and render them vulnerable to increasing levels of domestic violence In a unique multi disciplinary approach combining a range of subjects Tamsin Bradley provides a unique study of the role of development organizations and faith organizations in the lives of women in rural Rajasthan Faith and religion emerge as being able to afford a space within which women are able to interact with one another and create an identity for themselves However faith proves not just to be a positive sphere in which women are able to assert themselves Its ambiguity becomes clear as the author explains that religious women often find their visions of social justice and equality marginalised by the dominance of male leadership Nevertheless Bradley also look at how religious women challenge male dominance drawing on their beliefs and practices in creative and innovative ways Thus a complex picture emerges and including insights from gender studies and anthropology Bradley argues that religion can both empower and disempower local communities and the women who live within them By analysing development through the prism of gender studies Bradley highlights the complex nature of power relationships that are at the very heart of development agendas and organizations and offers an invaluable contribution to the understanding of the nexus of varied disciplines in the analysis of women and religion in Rajasthan This book will be of interest to students reseachers and policy makers involved in various fields including those of Development Studies Religion Gender Studies and Social Anthropology
