Music Theory in the Safavid Era Owen Wright, 2018-10-25 The Safavid era 1501-1722 is one of the most important in the history of Persian culture celebrated especially for its architecture and art including miniature paintings that frequently represent singers and instrumentalists Their presence reflects a sophisticated tradition of music making that was an integral part of court life yet it is one that remains little known for the musicological literature of the period is rather thin There is however a significant exception the text presented and analysed here a hitherto unpublished and anonymous theoretical work probably of the middle of the sixteenth century With a Sufi background inspiring the use of the nay as a tool of theoretical demonstration it is exceptional in presenting descriptive accounts of the modes then in use and suggesting how these might be arranged in complex sequences As it also gives an account of the corpus of rhythmic cycles it provides a unique insight into the basic structures of art music during the first century of Safavid rule

Theory and Practice in the Music of the Islamic World Rachel Harris, Martin Stokes, 2017-11-20 This volume of original essays is dedicated to Owen Wright in recognition of his formative contribution to the study of music in the Islamic Middle East Wright's work which comprises at the time of writing six field defining volumes and countless articles has reconfigured the relationship between historical musicology and ethnomusicology No account of the transformation of these fields in recent years can afford to ignore his work Ranging across the Middle East Central Asia and North India this volume brings together historical philological and ethnographic approaches The contributors focus on collections of musical notation and song texts on commercial and ethnographic recordings on travellers reports and descriptions of instruments on musical institutions and other spaces of musical performance An introduction provides an overview and critical discussion of Wright's major publications The central chapters cover the geographical regions and historical periods addressed in Wright's publications with particular emphasis on Ottoman and Timurid legacies Others discuss music in Greece Iraq and Iran Each explores historical continuities and discontinuities and the constantly changing relationships between music theory and practice An edited interview with Owen Wright concludes the book and provides a personal assessment of his scholarship and his approach to the history of the music of the Islamic Middle East Extending the implications of Wright's own work this volume argues for an ethnomusicology of the Islamic Middle East in which past and present text and performance are systematically in dialogue

Music of a Thousand Years Ann E. Lucas, 2019-10-22 A free open access ebook is available upon publication Learn more at www.luminoso.org Iran's particular system of traditional Persian art music has been long treated as the product of an ever evolving ancient Persian culture In Music of a Thousand Years Ann E. Lucas argues that this music is a modern phenomenon indelibly tied to changing notions of Iran's national history Rather than considering a single Persian music history Lucas demonstrates cultural dissimilarity and discontinuity over time bringing to light two different notions of music making in relation to premodern and modern musical norms An important corrective to the history of Persian music Music of a Thousand Years is the first work to align understandings of Middle Eastern music history with current understandings of the region's political history Touraj Kiaras and Persian Classical Music: An Analytical Perspective Owen Wright, 2017-07-05 In this book Owen Wright analyses a single recording of classical Persian music made by Touraj Kiaras a distinguished singer accompanied by four noted instrumentalists The format of the recording is typical of a public concert performance and thus includes instrumental compositions as well as a central exploration of vocal repertoire and technique The analysis identifies salient structural features whether of the individual components or of the whole in a way accessible to the western reader but it also takes account of the analytical metalanguage used in Persian scholarship and includes consideration of the relationship between music and poetry It is important to note that it is also guided by the perceptions of the performer whose input and responses to questions have significantly influenced the enterprise To avoid the dryly impersonal the analysis is also framed by an introduction which combines a biographical sketch of Touraj Kiaras with a survey of the twentieth century evolution of Persian classical music and of the position of the vocal repertoire within it and by an epilogue which examines further the ideological basis of prevalent attitudes to music and seeks to explore the validity of the analytical enterprise within this context Catalogue des manuscrits persans de la Bibliothèque nationale: nos. 721-1160 Bibliothèque nationale (France).
