Myth and Identity in the Martial Arts

Alexus McLeod, 2024-12-24 Myth and Identity in the Martial Arts: Creating the Dragon is a study of the role of myth and ideology in the formation of social identity focusing on a variety of communities of practice involving the martial arts in East Asian and Western history. Alexis McLeod argues that myths of the martial arts should not be understood as falsehoods created as means of legitimizing modern practices but should instead be understood as narratives that enable individuals and communities to formulate social identities and to accord meaning to their practices. This book covers six influential sources of myth and identity formation in the history of martial arts: early Chinese and Indian philosophy, the formation of bushido thought in the Edo period of Japan, the Republican era Chinese conceptions of nationhood and physical culture, Western contributions, and the innovations of Bruce Lee. African American conceptions of martial arts as a response to oppression in the twentieth century and the contemporary ideologies of mixed martial arts.
