On Translating Signs

Exploring Text and Semio-Translation

David Baud

On Translating Signs Dinda L. Gorlée, 2004 Translation produces meaningful versions of textual information But what is a text What is translation What is meaning And what is a translational version This book On Translating Signs Exploring Text and Semio Translation responds to those and other eternal translation theoretical questions from a semiotic point of view Dinda L Gorl e notes that in this world of interpretation and translation surrounded by our semio translational universe perfused with signs we can intuit whether or not an object in front of us dis qualifies as a text This spontaneous understanding requires no formalized definition in order to happen in the receivers of text signs. The author further observes that translated signs are not only intelligible for target audiences but also work together as a theatre of consciousness or a theatre of controversy which the author views as powered by Charles S Peirce's three categories of Firstness Secondness and Thirdness This book presents the virtual community of translators as emotional dynamical intellectual but not infallible semioticians They translate text signs from one language and culture into another thus creating an innovative sign milieu packed with intuitive dynamic and changeable signs Translators produce fleeting and fallible text translations with obvious errors caused by ignorance or misguided knowledge Text signs are translatable yet there is no such thing as a perfect or final translation And without the ongoing creating of translated signs of all kinds there would be no novelty no vagueness no manipulation of texts and for that matter no semiosis On Translating Signs Dinda L. They translate text signs from one language and culture into another thus creating an innovative sign milieu packed with intuitive dynamic and changeable signs Translators produce fleeting and fallible text translations with obvious errors caused by ignorance or misguided knowledge Text signs are translatable yet there is no such thing as a perfect or final translation And without the ongoing creating of translated signs of all kinds there would be no novelty no vagueness no manipulation of texts and for that matter no semiosis Translation as Scholarship Jay Crisostomo, 2019-01-14 In the first half of the 2d millennium BCE translation occasionally depicted semantically incongruous correspondences Such cases reflect ancient scribes substantiating their virtuosity with cuneiform writing by capitalizing on phonologic graphemic semantic and other resemblances in the interlingual space These scholar scribes employed an essential scribal practice analogical hermeneutics an interpretative activity grounded in analogical reasoning and empowered by the potentiality of the cuneiform script Scribal education systematized such practices allowing scribes to utilize these habits in copying compositions and creating translations In scribal education analogical hermeneutics is exemplified in the word list Izi both in its structure and in its occasional bilingualism By examining Izi as a product of the social field of scribal education this book argues that scribes used analogical hermeneutics to cultivate their craft and establish themselves as knowledgeable scribes Within a linguistic epistemology of cuneiform scribal culture translation is a tool in the hands of a knowledgeable scholar Song and Significance Dinda L. Gorlée, 2005 Vocal translation is an old art but the interpretive feeling skill and craft have expanded into a relatively new area in translation studies Vocal translation is the translation of the poetic discourse in the hybrid art of the musicopoetic or poeticomusical forms shapes and skills This symbiotic construct harmonizes together the conflicting roles of music and language in face to face singing performances In opera folksong hymn and art song as well as in operetta musical song and popular song we have musical genres allied to a libretto with lyrical text A libretto is a linguistic textwhich is a pre existing work of art but is subordinated to the musical text The essays in this volume provide interpretive models for the juxtaposition of different orders of the singing sign events in different languages extending the meaning and range of the musical and literary concepts and putting the mixed signs to a true and false test Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts ,2005 Semiotics and the Problem of Translation Dinda L. Gorlée, 1994 This study is primarily concerned with problems within semiotics translation theory and the interface between these two disciplines or better areas of research It treats of a critical analysis of the concept of translation in particularly Peirce's doctrine of signs and the semiotic implications of the process of translation Introduction

A (Bio)Semiotic Theory of Translation Kobus Marais, 2018-10-25 This volume outlines a theory of translation set within the framework of Peircean semiotics which challenges the linguistic bias in translation studies by proposing a semiotic theory that accounts for all instances of translation not only interlinguistic translation. In particular the volume explores cases of translation which does not include language at all The book begins by examining different conceptualizations of translation to highlight how linguistic bias in translation studies and semiotics has informed these fields and their development. The volume then outlines a complexity theory of translation based on semiotics which incorporates process philosophy semiotics and translation theory. It posits that translation is the complex systemic process underlying semiosis the result of which produces semiotic forms. The book concludes by looking at the implications of this conceptualization of translation on social cultural emergence theory through an interdisciplinary lens integrating perspectives from semiotics social semiotics and development studies. Paving the way for scholars to analyze translational aspects of all semiotic phenomena this volume is essential reading for graduate students and researchers in translation studies semiotics multimodal studies cultural studies.

and development studies Semiotranslating Peirce Douglas Robinson, 2016 Just as a long discussion with Doug Robinson is the shortest way toward conceptualizing innovative approaches in Translation Studies so reading a new book of his is a mindexpanding experience This definitely holds true for this book in which he undertakes an impressive attempt to retheorize semiotranslation One of its many intellectual merits is that he fundamentally questions our habitualized sometimes idealized assumptions The author himself mentions that he loves the periphery But some of his ideas are so central to the phenomenon of translation that they make us feel the need for a humble Semiotic Turn in Translation Studies Sensitive Texts Karl Simms, 1997 This volume brings together twenty two of the world's leading translation and interpreting theorists to address the issue of sensitivity in translation Whether in novels or legal documents the Bible or travel brochures in translating ancient texts or providing simultaneous interpretation sensitive subject matter contentious modes of expression and the sensibilities of the target audience are the biggest obstacles to acceptance of the translator s work The contributors bring to bear a wide variety of approaches generative cognitive lexical and functional in confronting this problem and in negotiating the competing claims of source cultures and target cultures in the areas of cultural political religious and sexual sensitivity All of the articles are presented here for the first time and in his Introduction Karl Simms gives an overview of the philosophical and linguistic questions which have motivated translators of sensitive texts through the ages This book will be of interest to all working translators and interpreters and to teachers of translation theory and practice Transgressions Theo Hermans, 2014-07-10 Crosscultural Transgressions offers explorations and critical assessments of research methods and models in translation studies and points up new questions and directions Ranging from epistemological questions of description and historiography to the politics of language including the language of translation research the book tackles issues of research design and methodology and goes on to examine the kind of disciplinary knowledge produced in translation studies who produces it and whose interests the dominant paradigms serve The focus is on historical and ideological problems but the crisis of representation that has affected all the human sciences in recent decades has left its mark As the essays in this collection explore the transgressive nature of crosscultural representation whether in translations or in the study of translation they remain attentive to institutional contexts and develop a self reflexive stance They also chart new territory taking their cue from ethnography semiotics sociology and cultural studies and tackling Meso American iconic scripts Bourdieu s constructivism translation between philosophical paradigms and the complexities of translation concepts in multicultural societies Intersemiotic Translation Aba-Carina Pârlog, 2019-03-30 This book explores the practical aspects of intersemiotic translation examining how different signs and sign sets can be transposed into different kinds of semiotic forms of reference Drawing on theories from translation studies semiotics philosophy and stylistics the author seeks to understand what happens when texts are translated from one genre or modality to another and makes use of examples ranging from written texts to advertising images music painting photography and sculpture She also analyses related topics such as the differences between Romance and Germanic languages the difficulties that arise when attempts are made to translate figures of speech or elements of authorial style and how this interdisciplinary field relates to traditional language based translation This book will be of interest to students teachers translators and researchers working in the fields of translation studies and multimodality in particular Meaning in Translation Barbara Lewandowska-Tomaszczyk, 2010 collection of selected articles from the joint International Maastricht odz Duo Colloquia on Translating across Sensory and Linguistic Borders Madeleine Campbell, Ricarda Translation and Meaning Introduction Vidal, 2018-12-08 This book analyses intersemiotic translation where the translator works across sign systems and cultural boundaries Challenging Roman Jakobson's seminal definitions it examines how a poem may be expressed as dance a short story as an olfactory experience or a film as a painting This emergent process opens up a myriad of synaesthetic possibilities for both translator and target audience to experience form and sense beyond the limitations of words The editors draw together theoretical and creative contributions from translators artists performers academics and curators who have explored intersemiotic translation in their practice. The contributions offer a practitioner's perspective on this rapidly evolving interdisciplinary field which spans semiotics cognitive poetics psychoanalysis and transformative learning theory The book underlines the intermedial and multimodal nature of perception and expression where semiotic boundaries are considered fluid and heuristic rather than ontological It will be of particular interest to practitioners scholars and students of modern foreign languages linguistics literary and cultural studies interdisciplinary humanities visual arts theatre and the Text Typology and Translation Anna Trosborg, 1997-11-27 This book breaks new ground in translation performing arts theory and practice The central question is In what ways are translations affected by text types The two main areas of investigation are A What are the advantages of focusing on text types when trying to understand the process of translation How do translators tackle different text types in their daily practice B To what extent and in what areas are text types identical across languages and cultures What similarities and dissimilarities can be observed in text types of original and translated texts Part I deals with methodological aspects and offers a typology of translations both as product and as process Part II is devoted to domain specific texts in a cross cultural perspective while Part III is concerned with terminology and lexicon as well as the constraints of mode and medium involving dubbing and subtitling as translation methods Sonnets sagas fairy tales novels and feature films sermons political speeches international treaties instruction leaflets business letters academic lectures academic articles medical research articles technical brochures and legal documents are but some of the texts under investigation In sum this volume provides a theoretical overview of major problems and possibilities as well as investigations into a variety of text types with practical suggestions that deserve to be weighted by anyone considering the relation between text typology and translation The volume is indispensable for the translator in his her efforts to become a competent text aware professional Translation as Communication across Languages and Cultures Juliane

House, 2015-10-30 In this interdisciplinary book Juliane House breaks new ground by situating translation within Applied Linguistics In thirteen chapters she examines translation as a means of communication across different languages and cultures provides a critical overview of different approaches to translation of the link between culture and translation and between views of context and text in translation Featuring an account of translation from a linguistic cognitive perspective House covers problematic issues such as the existence of universals of translation cases of untranslatability and ways and means of assessing the quality of a translation Recent methodological and research avenues such as the role of corpora in translation and the effects of globalization processes on translation are presented in a neutral non biased manner The book concludes with a thorough historical account of the role of translation in foreign language learning and teaching and a discussion of new challenges and problems of the professional practice of translation in our world today Written by a highly experienced teacher and researcher in the field Translation as Communication across Languages and Cultures is an essential resource for students and researchers of Translation Studies Applied Linguistics and Communication Studies and Assessment in Translation and Interpreting Studies Claudia V. Angelelli, Holly E. Jacobson, 2009-10-22 Testing and Assessment in Translation and Interpreting Studies examines issues of measurement that are essential to translation and interpreting Conceptualizing testing both as a process and a product the collection of papers explores these issues across languages and settings including university classrooms research projects the private sector and professional associations The authors have approached their chapters from different perspectives using a variety of methods some focusing on very specific variables and others providing a much broader overview of the issues at hand Chapters range from a discussion of the measurement of text cohesion in translation the measurement of interactional competence in interpreting the use of a particular scale to measure interpreters renditions to the application of a specific approach to grading or general program assessment such as interpreter or translator certification at the national level or program admissions processes These studies point to the need for greater integration of research and practice in the specific area of testing and assessment and are a welcome addition to the field Translator and Interpreter Training John Kearns, 2008-05-12 As a research area education in the fields of translation and interpreting has received growing attention in recent years with the increasing professionalization of the language mediation sector demanding ever more highly trained employees with broader repertoires This trend is evidenced in the present collection which addresses issues in pedagogy in a variety of translation and interpreting domains A global range of contributors discuss teaching evaluation professionalization and competence as they apply to an array of educational and linguistic situations Translator and Interpreter Training Issues Methods and Debates presents an in depth consideration of the issues involved in this area of translation and interpreting studies and will be of interest to all students and academics working and researching in the field Textual and Contextual Analysis in Empirical Translation Studies Sara Laviosa, Adriana Pagano, Hannu Kemppanen, Meng Ji, 2016-07-28 This book presents the state of art

research in ETS by illustrating useful corpus methodologies in the study of important translational genres such as political texts literature and media translations Empirical Translation Studies ETS represents one of the most exciting fields of research It gives emphasis and priority to the exploration and identification of new textual and linguistic patterns in large amounts of translation data gathered in the form of translation data bases A distinct feature of current ETS is the testing and development of useful quantitative methods in the study of translational corpora In this book Hannu Kemppanen explores the distribution of ideologically loaded keywords in early Finnish translation of Russian political genres which yielded insights into the complex political relation between Finland and Russia in the post Soviet era Adriana Pagano uses multivariate analysis in the study of a large scale corpus of Brazilian fiction translations produced between 1930s 1950s which is known as the golden age of Latin American translation The statistical analysis detected a number of translation strategies in Brazilian Portuguese fictional translations which point to deliberate efforts made by translators to re frame original English texts within the Brazilian social and political context in the first three decades under investigation Meng Ji uses exploratory statistical techniques in the study of recent Chinese media translation by focusing three important media genres i e reportage editorial and review The statistical analysis effectively detected important variations among three news genres which are analysed in light of the social and communicative functions of these news genres in informing and mobilising the audience in specific periods of time in Mainland China From Sign to Text Y. Tobin, 1989-01-01 This volume contains selected contributions from the colloquium From Sign to Text Ben Gurion University 1985 and combines the diverse interdisciplinary interests and approaches of the contributors in a fundamentally shared definition of language seen as a flexible and open ended system of systems revolving around the notion of signs used by human beings to communicate The special interrelationship between signs and texts is discussed both theoretically and methodologically The collection consists of an English and a French section Discourse and the Translator B. Hatim, Ian Mason, 2014-06-17 Discourse and the Translator both incorporates and moves beyond previous studies of translation Its logical and informative approach to the problems of translation ensures that it will be essential for all those who work with languages in contact Incorporating research in sociolinguistics discourse studies pragmatics and semiotics the authors analyse the process and product of translation in their social contexts Through this analysis the book emphasises the importance of the translator as a mediator between cultures
