A streamlined format and a new, more user friendly full color design with many at a glance summary tables, algorithms, boxes, diagrams and thousands of phenomenal color illustrations allows you to locate the assistance you need more rapidly than ever. Vascular Tumors and Malformations of the Ocular Fundus

J.J. de Laey, M. Hanssens, 2012-12-06 This report for the Belgian Ophthalmological Society concerns a number of fundus diseases which most ophthalmologists only rarely encounter. Still it is of importance that they should be able to recognize them not only because most of these eye diseases are treatable when they are diagnosed early enough but also because they are sometimes associated with major visceral and neurological problems. The ophthalmologist may be the first practitioner to suspect a von Hippel Lindau's disease or a neurofibromatosis. He should realize at that moment that his role is not only to treat the eyes but also to advise his patient, refer him to other specialists and consider the genetic implications of his diagnosis. Clinicopathologic correlations are of great importance and we felt that it was necessary to emphasize the histopathological aspect of these diseases. A report has to overview the literature on a specific topic. The literature on vascular tumors of the fundus is extremely vast and even if we tried to be as complete as possible we must confess that we did not cite every author who published on such cases. A third aspect which was considered as important was to provide sufficient clinical and histopathologic examples of the various diseases which are reviewed. We are indebted to a large number of friends who kindly authorized the publication of their material. In particular we wish to thank Prof A Brini, Strasbourg, Dr D de Wolff, Rouendaal, Leiden, Prof P Principles and Practice of Ophthalmology Daniel M. Albert, Frederick A. Jakobiec, 2000. In 1994 Drs Albert and Jakobiec set a new standard for reference works on ocular health and disease with Principles and

Sachsenweger,Ulrich Sachsenweger,2012-12-06 There has been growing acceptance of the insight that the methods so far used in the testing of visual functions have been inadequate when it comes to specific problems and should therefore be supplemented with more specialised methods for dynamic testing As long as two decades ago large scale mass screening produced evidence to the effect that visual acuity so far exclusively determined by means of still samples was not identical with visual acuity in the ocular pursuit of moving targets dynamic visual acuity In other words vision testing can at present provide little information on an individual's capability of identification appreciation and judgement of mobile objects Spatial three dimensional perception of moving targets hereafter referred to as dynamic stereoacuity is the particular subject on which findings are reported in this article Findings of that kind are of considerable relevance to everyday life since many of the phenomena that have to be three dimensionally perceived in private life and in occupational practice are in movement So far dynamic stereoacuity has never been systematically studied and is still a blank space on the maps of ophthalmology and physiology This is equally true for dynamic stereoscopy in binocular vision as well as for perception on the basis of movement parallax a phenomenon of differentiated contour displacement within a given field of vision which is also available to the monocular individual under conditions of head or body or object movement within the visual space Simultaneous

Horizontal and Cyclovertical Strabismus Surgery M.H. Gobin,J.J.M Bierlaagh,1994-01-31 Thirty years ago our attention was drawn to the alphabetical incomitances in strabismus As an elevation in adduction is the most frequent incomitance we decided to start treating these incomitances A weakening procedure of the inferior oblique muscle seemed indicated However since we wanted to prevent a torsional overcorrection with a head tilt we displaced the scleral insertion of the oblique muscle towards the equator of the globe This way the torsional action of the muscles is saved A weakening of the horizontal rectus muscles was systematically added making it a simultaneous horizontal and cyclovertical surgery Our way to deal with strabismus developed into a coherent entity and the interest of colleagues encouraged us to write it down We decided to publish a textbook with a theoretical and an extensive practical part Our approach is based on thirty years of exclusive strabological work half time academic and half time private practice More than 6500 results were analysed and the majority have been published The concerned publications are referred to at the end of the first chapter Private practice allowed to benefit from the fact that patients were operated on by the same surgeon and remained in personal contact during follow up
