"The Art-Journal and Fine Art Publishing in Victorian England, 1850-1880" Katherine Haskins, 2017-07-05 Focusing on an era that both inherited and irretrievably altered the form and the content of earlier art production The Art Journal and Fine Art Publishing in Victorian England 1850-1880 argues that fine art practices and the audiences and markets for them were influenced by the media culture of art publishing and journalism in substantial and formative ways perhaps more than at any other time in the history of English art The study centers on forms of Victorian picture making and the art knowledge systems defining them and draws on the histories of art literature journalism and publishing The historical example employed in the book is that of the more than 800 steel plate prints after paintings published in the London based Art Journal between 1850 and 1880 The cultural phenomenon of the Art Journal print is shown to be a key connector in mid-Victorian art appreciation by drawing out specific tropes of likeness This study also examines the important links between paint and print the aesthetic values and domestic aspirations of the Victorian middle class and the inextricable intertwining of fine art and trade publishing

Early American Cartographies Martin Brückner, 2012-12-01 Maps were at the heart of cultural life in the Americas from before colonization to the formation of modern nation states The fourteen essays in Early American Cartographies examine indigenous and European peoples' creation and use of maps to better represent and understand the world they inhabited Drawing from both current historical interpretations and new interdisciplinary perspectives this collection provides diverse approaches to understanding the multilayered exchanges that went into creating cartographic knowledge in and about the Americas In the introduction editor Martin Bruckner provides a critical assessment of the concept of cartography and of the historiography of maps The individual essays then range widely over space and place from the imperial reach of Iberian and British cartography to indigenous conceptualizations including dirty ephemeral maps and star charts to demonstrate that pre-nineteenth century American cartography was at once a multiform and multicultural affair This volume not only highlights the collaborative genesis of cartographic knowledge about the early Americas the essays also bring to light original archives and innovative methodologies for investigating spatial relations among peoples in the western hemisphere Taken together the authors reveal the roles of early American cartographies in shaping popular notions of national space informing visual perception animating literary imagination and structuring the political history of Anglo and Ibero America The contributors are Martin Bruckner University of Delaware Michael J Drexler Bucknell University Matthew H Edney University of Southern Maine Jess Edwards Manchester Metropolitan University Junia Ferreira Furtado Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais Brazil William Gustav Gartner University of Wisconsin Madison Gavin Hollis Hunter College of the City University of New York Scott Lehman independent scholar Ken MacMillan University of Calgary Barbara E Mundy Fordham University Andrew Newman Stony Brook University Ricardo Padron University of Virginia Judith Ridner Mississippi State University
