Private Development Aid In Transition:

Private Development Aid in Transition Fons van der Valden, 2002 Study with particular reference to Dutch economic assistance to India Future Development Assistance to Transitional Countries United States. Congress. House. Committee on Foreign Affairs. Subcommittee on Inter-American Affairs, 1980 Aid in Transition Theodor N. Grigoriadis, 2014-10-14 This book is the one of the first to address aid effectiveness as a political and comparative economics question Since the collapse of the Soviet Union and the transition of its republics to market structures and more representative forms of government the European Commission has recognized the necessity of a closer economic cooperation with Russia Ukraine and Kazakhstan the three largest economies of the former Soviet Union This book suggests that the foreign aid of the European Union provided a set of reform incentives to post Soviet planners It created the grounds for the institutional and social transformation of the bureaucracy at both central and regional levels by integrating it into the aid allocation process In Russia Ukraine and Kazakhstan the observed subordination of NGOs to the developmental priorities of the bureaucracy occurred at the expense of diversity and political openness Nevertheless this reality led to the emergence of transnational sovereignty partnerships that reduced poverty for the general population and motivated both bureaucrats and entrepreneurs to cooperate Empirical models alone are not sufficient to delineate all the aspects of principal agent relationships in post Soviet bureaucracies This is why formal modeling and analysis of qualitative data are extremely useful Evaluation reports indicate the problems and challenges faced by aid bureaucrats and suggest that the weakly institutionalized environments of Ukraine and Central Asia Kazakhstan are less conducive to aid effectiveness than the heavily bureaucratized environment of Russia The proposed incentives system for the allocation of foreign aid links EU foreign policy with bureaucratic decision making and reflects the choice sets of the donor and the recipient Multilevel definitions of aid effectiveness are provided in the course of the book chapters Proposed Mutual Defense and Development Programs United States. Agency for International Development, 1965 Development Finance in the Global Economy T. Addison, G. Mavrotas, 2008-04-17 A positive chapter has begun in finance for poor countries Yet progress remains tentative This book looks at how to make international finance better serve the needs of poor countries and poor people It contains contributions by economists and political scientists who have been at the centre of the international policy debate Proposed Mutual Defense and Assistance Program, Economic: Agency for International Development United States. Agency for International Development, 1964 Transforming Foreign Aid Carol Lancaster, 2000 The phenomenon of foreign aid began at the end of World War II and has survived the Cold War How should the United States now spend its foreign aid to support its interests and values in the new century In this study Carol Lancaster takes a fresh look at all US foreign aid programs and asks whether their purposes organization and management are appropriate to US interests and values in the world of the 21st century Lancaster finds that US aid in the new century if it is to be an effective tool of US foreign policy needs to be transformed Its purposes need to be refocused and its organization and management brought into line with those purposes Those purposes include support for peace making addressing transnational issues providing for humane concerns and responding to humanitarian emergencies Traditional programs aimed at promoting development democracy and economic and political transitions in former socialist countries will not disappear but they will have less priority than in the past These new sets of purposes promoting both US interests and values abroad also offer a policy paradigm around which a new political consensus can be created that will support US aid in the 21st century Transforming Foreign Aid should be of particular interest to professors students and researchers of international affairs foreign policy political science and political economy Proposed Mutual Defense and Development Programs ,1965

Trade and Development in Transitional Economics Kishor Sharma,2007 This book presents an analysis of the Kyrgyz Republic and Tajikistan whose experiences are equally important to other newly independent countries These countries were little known to the rest of the world until they gained independence from the FSU Independence from the FSU brought more challenges than opportunities Despite huge development potential based on natural resources almost all countries in the region continue to suffer from high unemployment and fiscal imbalances While trade based on the concept of comparative advantage is crucial for small economies as the experience of Singapore and Hong Kong suggests it has not played a significant role in accelerating growth and alleviating poverty in the Central Asian countries The book sheds light on these issues which can provide useful development lessons not only to newly independent countries but also to other developing countries which are in the path of global integration Forest Transition Deficiency Syndrome Emmanuel Ametepeh,2019-01-04 While previous studies focus on lack of enforcement of forest laws poverty and ecological values of forest dependent people coherent studies on people s motivations for forest illegalities and non compliance behavior remain scanty Emmanuel Ametepéh argues that the systematic analysis of cause and effect patterns related to forest management measures and policies through the lenses of the Forest Transition Theory uncovers severe limitations The resulting multi complex stress factors adversely impact and hence manifest in the form of deviant compliance behavior syndrome in the management endeavor of forest fringe people The Author shows that motivations for forest illegalities and associated non compliance behavior is largely an outcome of adverse experiences forest people have been subjected to as a result of historical and contemporary neglects and marginalization in the management endeavor Statistical Abstract of the United States ,2000 Proposed Mutual Defense and Assistance Programs United States. Agency for International Development,1964 World Development Report 1996 ,1996 Almost one third of the world s population has embarked on a transition from planned to market economies Like economic reforms elsewhere the long term goal of this transition is to build a thriving market economy capable of delivering long term growth in living standards Now in its 19th annual edition the World Development Report 1996 takes an in depth look at these transition countries focusing on the key lessons that have taken place thus far The introduction to the Report poses a number of key questions that are addressed in later chapters including questions relating to initial challenges and how countries have tackled them from very different starting points and political conditions The Report also focuses on the additional challenges these transition countries face with a final chapter that summarizes the main conclusion of the Report creating a text that will no doubt become the definitive source for students studying international economics and politics

Japan's Development Assistance Yasutami Shimomura, John Page, Hiroshi Kato, 2016-01-26 Once the world's largest ODA provider contemporary Japan seems much less visible in international development However this book demonstrates that Japan with its own aid philosophy experiences and models of aid has ample lessons to offer to the international community as the latter seeks new paradigms of development cooperation

Local Governance, Economic Development and Institutions G. Gomez, P. Knorringa, Georgina M. Gómez, 2016-04-08 Development is what most people see as progress in the places where they live and in the ways they live It has to do with public services the ways to complain when these are not delivered properly and the spaces to change power structures It is related to the economy the opportunities to access a secure job a sustainable livelihood and increased welfare while caring for the planet and others It is also linked to the institutions that allow people to live life well using resources ethically and doing business responsibly in relation to other communities and future generations This edited collection examines the interconnections between local governance economic development and institutions by focusing on what initiatives work and under what conditions they do so Based on a variety of theories and empirical data it presents evidence from current experiences around the world revealed by researchers across different continents and several generations
