Missional Church Daniel L. Guder,1998-02-09 What would a theology of the Church look like that took seriously the fact that North America is now itself a mission field This question lies at the foundation of this volume written by an ecumenical team of six noted missiologists Lois Barrett Inagrace T Dietterich Darrell L Guder George R Hunsberger Alan J Roxburgh and Craig Van Gelder The result of a three year research project undertaken by The Gospel and Our Culture Network this book issues a firm challenge for the church to recover its missional call right here in North America while also offering the tools to help it do so The authors examine North America s secular culture and the church s loss of dominance in today s society They then present a biblically based theology that takes seriously the church s missional vocation and draw out the consequences of this theology for the structure and institutions of the church

West Coast Mission Ross A. Lockhart,2024-10-15 Vancouver British Columbia now reports no religion as its leading religious identity putting it in the vanguard of a trend happening across North America What does this mean for the Christian communities that continue to worship work and witness in this mostly secular city West Coast Mission seeks to uncover where Christianity in Vancouver is headed now that it is a minority belief system in the broader culture Drawing on a five year study of fourteen sites including church plants congregations and para church agencies Ross Lockhart describes how Christians in Vancouver are organizing their communities shaping their beliefs and expressing themselves in mission He finds that rather than simply declining Christianity in the city is adapting in response to immigration decolonization pluralism and social crises Christians are focusing on friendship and social connection in a culture that identifies as spiritual not religious on affordable housing as a missional concern on the communal value of environmental stewardship and on sharing the gospel in light of the destructive legacies of colonialism and residential schools West Coast Mission explores the evolving spectrum of religious identity in Vancouver and the significant cultural shifts taking place in how Christian mission and witness are approached in a secular city
