Reading in Chinese as an Additional Language Liu Li, Dongbo Zhang, 2022-12-29. Reading in Chinese as an Additional Language focuses on Chinese literacy acquisition which has been considered most difficult by both learners and teachers of Chinese as an additional language. CAL. Three major areas are covered: 1. acquisition of Chinese characters, 2. reading comprehension subskills and reader's identity, 3. reading instruction and assessment. The first part delves into the foundation of Chinese literacy development: how to learn and teach Chinese characters. The second part examines various learners' reading comprehension subskills as well as the evolution of learners' literacy identity. The third part explores effective instructional methods and assessment practices for CAL reading development. Theoretically, this book provides frameworks and evidence from both cognitive and sociocultural perspectives on the nature of CAL reading development. Pedagogically, the book showcases how to teach and assess CAL reading skills. Methodologically, this book includes empirical studies using both qualitative and quantitative methods. In terms of scope, the book covers a much broader spectrum of issues about CAL reading research and classroom teaching than has previously been available. Writing is also discussed in several chapters. In terms of technology, the book includes discussion on how the use of computers, the Internet and social media impacts students' Chinese literacy acquisition. This book will help CAL researchers and educators better understand the nature of CAL reading development and become well informed about CAL classroom teaching and assessment, including the application of interactive approaches to teaching and assessing diverse reading skills.

Bilingualism Bee Chin Ng, Gillian Wigglesworth, 2007. Written by an experienced team of teachers and researchers, this comprehensive introduction to the key issues and debates in bilingualism presents articles from leading figures including Genesee, Peal, MacNamara, Baker, Saer and Swain.

Language Proficiency in Native and Non-native Speakers Jan H. Hulstijn, 2015-02-15. This book, written for both seasoned and novice researchers, presents a theory of what is called Basic and Higher Language Cognition (BLC and HLC), a theory aimed at making some fundamental issues concerning first and second language learning and bilingualism more empirical. The first part of the book provides background for and explication of the theory as well as an agenda for future research, while the second part reports on selected studies of language proficiency in native speakers as well as non native speakers and studies of the relationship between literacy in a first and second language Conceptual and methodological problems in measuring language proficiency in research on second language acquisition and bilingualism are also discussed Further the notion of levels of language proficiency as rendered by the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages CEFR is critically examined suggesting ways of empirically investigating a number of questions that the CEFR raises but is not capable of answering
