Reading Faulkner Wisconsin Project On American Writers:

Reading Faulkner Wesley Morris, Barbara Alverson Morris, 1989 The general argument advanced by the Morrises in this ambitious work revolves around the idea that William Faulkner is deeply critical of the prevailing Southern myth and discourse furthermore that his narratives are an attempt to discover and amplify alternative voices within that dominant milieu Those voices and the stories they tell are most often those of the unprivileged in race class and gender the black the poor white the woman the neurotic and so forth who act out the disintegration of Southern culture even as they may be said to hold it together in a communal act of mythmaking This reading thus makes the case a largely revisionary one for Faulkner as a fully engaged political writer a writer embroiled in the process of the subversion and dissolution not only of dominant Southern myth but of dominant Southern reality as well Structured in the way Faulkner imagined his entire fictional universe as a single narrative Reading Faulkner's incremental design results in a story that has much of the drive and force of Faulkner's story itself

American Sublime Rob Wilson, 1991 Tracing ideas of the sublime in American literature from Puritan writings to the postmodern epoch Rob Wilson demonstrates that the North American landscape has been the ground for political as well as aesthetic transport He takes a distinctly historical approach and explores the ways in which experiences of the American landscape instill desire for other kinds of vastness self expansion national expansion and American political power As Wallace Stevens put it the American will takes dominion everywhere Wilson sets the stage for his genealogy with a discussion of the classical notion of the sublime taken primarily from Longinus and the ways that notion was pragmatically transformed by its American setting and appropriated by American poets He follows this transformation in successive chapters on the Puritans Bradstreet through the Naturalists Livingston and Bryant from the epitome of the American sublime Whitman to the greatest of the modernists Stevens and its present day incarnations Ashbery and others Writing today under the sign of Hiroshima contemporary writers must struggle with the concept of the sublime within a context of spiralling technologies and nuclear force that calls into question the long standing American sacralization of power Throughout American Sublime Wilson engages in an original theoretical inquiry into the sublime as term topic complex and controversial idea in literary and critical history Furthermore he undertakes his historical study from an avowedly postmodern perspective one that draws on and extends the work of Jameson Lyotard Foucault Lentricchia Harold Bloom and others

American Superrealism Jonathan Veitch, 1997-11-01 Nathanael West has been hailed as an apocalyptic writer a writer on the left and a precursor to postmodernism But until now no critic has succeeded in fully engaging West's distinctive method of negation In American Superrealism Jonathan Veitch examines West's letters short stories screenplays and novels some of which are discussed here for the first time as well as West's collaboration with William Carlos Williams during their tenure as the editors of Contact Locating West in a lively American avant garde tradition that stretches from Marcel Duchamp to Andy Warhol Veitch explores the possibilities and limitations of dada and surrealism the use of readymades

Capturing the lively modernist milieu of Kenneth Burke's early career in Greenwich Village where Burke arrived in 1915 fresh from high school in Pittsburgh this book discovers him as an intellectual apprentice conversing with the moderns Burke found himself in the midst of an avant garde peopled by Malcolm Cowley Marianne Moore Jean Toomer Katherine Anne Porter William Carlos Williams Allen Tate Hart Crane Alfred Stieglitz and a host of other fascinating figures Burke himself who died in 1993 at the age of 96 has been hailed as America's most brilliant and suggestive critic and the most significant theorist of rhetoric since Cicero Many schools of thought have claimed him as their own but Burke has defied classification and indeed has often been considered a solitary eccentric genius immune to intellectual fashions But Burke's formative work of the 1920s when he first defined himself and his work in the context of the modernist conversation has gone relatively unexamined Here we see Burke living and working with the crowd of poets painters and dramatists affiliated with Others magazine Stieglitz's 291 gallery and Eugene O'Neill's Provincetown Players the leftists associated with the magazines The Masses and Seven Arts the Dadaists and the modernist writers working on literary journals like The Dial where Burke in his capacity as an associate editor saw T.S. Eliot's The Wasteland into print for the first time and provided other editorial services for Thomas Mann e.e. cummings Ezra Pound and many other writers of note Burke also met the iconoclasts of the older generation represented by Theodore Dreiser and H.L. Mencken the New Humanists and the literary nationalists who founded Contact and The New Republic Jack Selzer shows how Burke's own early poems fiction and essays emerged from and contributed to the modernist conversation in Greenwich Village He draws on a wonderfully rich array of letters between Burke and his modernist friends and on the memoirs of his associates to create a vibrant portrait of the young Burke's transformation from aesthete to social critic      Get the Guests Walter Albert Davis, 1994 Through a detailed reading of five great modern American plays The Iceman Cometh A Streetcar Named Desire Death of a Salesman Long Day's Journey Into Night and Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? Walter A. Davis calls for a more penetrating look at drama and its psychological impact on the audience Establishing connections between literary criticism and psychoanalysis he challenges ruling assumptions of both disciplines Unconventional and original his theory demonstrates how the theater as a potential threat to social order expresses the secrets and discontents of its audience      Specifying Susan Willis, 1987 Focusing on Zola Neale Hurston Paule Marshall Toni Morrison Alice Walker and Toni Cade Bambara this book explores both the ways in which black women's fictions have been shaped by the history of the United States and the ways in which they intervene in that history She sees the transition from an agrarian to an urban society as the critical moment of that history and argues that writings by black women articulate that change in their content as well as form ISBN 0 299 10890 2 19 95      Repression and
