Managing Historical Records Programs Bruce William Dearstyne, 2000 Historical records are a focus and collecting area for many historical societies history museums and other historical agencies Yet many historical records programs face special challenges and needs including inadequate resource levels physical preservation problems and underdeveloped documentation appraisal and collecting policies In Managing Historical Records Programs Bruce Dearstyne's goal is to foster stronger more vibrant historical records programs by introducing the basics of archival work to historical agency personnel He describes strategies approaches principles and best practices of strong programs while providing lots of examples checklists and appendixes that help solve complex problems An important resource for anyone considering starting a historical records program or wishing to strengthen an existing one Book jacket Museum Handbook: Museum records United States. National Park Service, 1991 Teaching fashion. An introduction Romana Andò, 2020 This collection of contributions was created to prove both the complexity of the contemporary fashion system as well as the richness and openness of an interdisciplinary approach to the field that is the same that inspires the Master programme in Fashion Studies at Sapienza University of Rome All the authors either scholars or professionals in their fields are deeply involved in this educational project and they have conceived each contribution as a pedagogic tool for supporting students in better understanding the social cultural economic technological creative environmental aspects of fashion Therefore this collection aimed at providing readers with a kaleidoscopic approach a multitude of voices and perspectives a set of blended methodologies as well as theories that try to address the challenges of the permanent and accelerating transformations of the fashion system To understand the future of fashion we have to foster creative as well as critical thinking working on the knowledge we got from the past and identifying changes in advance in order to be ready and prepared for the challenges that are in front of us Issuance of Revised NPS Museum Handbook Part II, Appendix D: Museum Archives and Manuscript Collections, 2008 ,2009 The Future of Archives and Recordkeeping Jennie Hill, 2011 The way in which we view the nature of archives and the role of the archivist has changed significantly in the last few decades With increasing interest from outside of the profession the idea of archives as the static impartial carriers of truth and the archivist as a guardian of records has been questioned how can society take greater control over its own written memory There have been a number of other changes which have impacted upon the way archivists conceive of themselves and the way in which they work Chief among these are the rapid rise of technology and the challenges this poses and the changing place of archives within related fields such as records and information management It is imperative that archivists engage with these challenges if archives are to emerge as a renewed force in the 21st century This much needed book is designed not as a practical guide to professional practice but rather as a reader addressing these challenges The chapters are contributed by leaders in the field and are grouped around the following four core themes defining archives shaping a discipline Archives 2000 archives in society archives in the information age is there still a role for the archivist Each chapter represents a defined argument in its own right to enable readers to dip in and out of the collection as they wish and the book is structured to highlight chapters that share a common theme Readership Archivists and students of archive administration
