Deconstruction, Feminist Theology, and the Problem of Difference Ellen T. Armour, 1999-06-15 The term feminism conjures up the promise of resistance to the various forms of oppression women face But feminism's ability to fulfill this promise has been undermined by its failure to deal adequately with the difference that race makes for gender In this book Ellen T Armour forges an alliance between deconstruction and feminist theology and theory by demonstrating deconstruction's usefulness in addressing feminism's trouble with race Armour shows how the writings of Jacques Derrida and Luce Irigaray can be used to uncover feminism's white presumptions so that race and gender can be thought of differently In clear concise terms she explores the possibilities and limitations for feminist theology of Derrida's conception of woman and Irigaray's multiple woman as well as Derrida's thinking on race and Irigaray's work on religion Armour then points a way beyond the race gender divide with the help of African American theorists such as bell hooks Hortense Spillers and Patricia Hill Collins

The Ethics and Politics of Community Engagement in Global Health Research Lindsey Reynolds, Salla Sariola, 2020-06-09 Drawing on a growing consensus about the importance of community representation and participation for ethical research community engagement has become a central component of scientific research policy making ethical review and technology design The diversity of actors involved in large scale global health research collaborations and the broader background conditions of global inequality and injustice that frame the field have led some researchers funders and policy makers to conclude that community engagement is nothing less than a moral imperative in global health research Rather than taking community engagement as a given the contributions in this edited volume highlight how processes of community engagement are shaped by particular local histories and social and political dynamics and by the complex social relations between different actors involved in global public health research By interrogating the everyday politics and practices of engagement across diverse contexts the book pushes conversations around engagement and participation beyond their conventional framings In doing so it raises radical questions about knowledge power expertise authority representation inclusivity and ethics and to make recommendations for more transformative inclusive and meaningful community engagement This book was originally published as a special issue of the Critical Public Health journal

The Ontological Foundation of Ethics, Politics, and Law Francesco Belfiore, 2013-03-25 The revised edition of The Ontological Foundation of Ethics Politics and Law adds new concepts and discusses the views of additional thinkers The author refers to his basic ontological conception of the human mind or spirit as an evolving conscious triadic entity composed of intellect sensitivity and power each exerting a bidirectional selfish and moral activity Through this approach the notions of good morality society and law are derived from the structure and functioning of the mind It follows that the solutions presented are the results of a discovery and not the consequence of a choice Otherwise stated ethics politics and law are given an ontological foundation For each topic considered Belfiore shows how his thought can reinterpret the views of other philosophers This new edition enriched in concepts and quotations appears as an innovative and highly stimulating contribution to the philosophical branches of ethics politics and law and will be of interest to both graduate students and philosophy scholars
