C. Relph, 1987-08 Why do the cities of the late twentieth century look as they do What values do their appearance express and enfold Their sheer scale and the durability of their materials assure that our cities will inform future generations about our era in the same way that gothic cathedrals and medieval squares tell us something of the Middle Ages In the meantime our urban landscapes can tell us much about ourselves For E C Relph the urban landscape must be envisioned as a total environment not just streets and buildings but billboards and parking meters as well The Modern Urban Landscape traces the developments since 1880 in architecture technology planning and society that have formed the visual context of daily life Each of these shaping influences is often viewed in isolation but Relph surveys the ways in which they have operated independently to create what we see when we walk down a street shop in a mall or stare through a windshield on an expressway Two sets of ideas and fashions Relph argues have had an especially important impact on urban landscapes in the twentieth century An internationalism made possible by new building technologies and more rapid communications has replaced regional style and custom as the dominant feature of city appearance while a firm belief in the merits of self consciousness has imposed logical analysis and technical manipulation on such commonplace objects as curbstones and park benches As a result writes Relph the modern urban landscape is both rationalized and artificial which is another way of saying that it is intensely human

Chinese Architecture and the Beaux-Arts Jeffrey W. Cody, Nancy Shatzman Steinhardt, Tony Atkin, 2011-01-31 In the early twentieth century Chinese traditional architecture and the French derived methods of the cole des Beaux Arts converged in the United States when Chinese students were given scholarships to train as architects at American universities whose design curricula were dominated by Beaux Arts methods Upon their return home in the 1920s and 1930s these graduates began to practice architecture and create China s first architectural schools often transferring a version of what they had learned in the U S to Chinese situations The resulting complex series of design related transplantations had major implications for China between 1911 and 1949 as it simultaneously underwent cataclysmic social economic and political changes After 1949 and the founding of the People s Republic China experienced a radically different wave of influence from the Beaux Arts through advisors from the Soviet Union who first under Stalin and later Khrushchev brought Beaux Arts ideals in the guise of socialist progress In the early twenty first century China is still feeling the effects of these events Chinese Architecture and the Beaux Arts examines the coalescing of the two major architectural systems placing significant shifts in architectural theory and practice in China within relevant contemporary cultural and educational contexts Fifteen major scholars from around the world analyze and synthesize these crucial events to shed light on the dramatic architectural and urban changes occurring in China today many of which have global ramifications This stimulating and generously illustrated work is divided into three sections framed by an introduction and a postscript The first focuses on the convergence of Chinese architecture and the cole des Beaux Arts outlining the salient aspects of each and suggesting how and why the two met in the U S The second section centers on the question of how Chinese architects were influenced by the Beaux Arts and how Chinese architecture was changed as a result The third takes an even closer look at the Beaux Arts influence addressing how innovative practices new schools of architecture and buildings whose designs were linked to Beaux Arts assumptions led to distinctive new paradigms that were rooted in a changing China By virtue of its scope scale and scholarship this volume promises to become a classic in the fields of Chinese and Western architectural history Contributors Tony Atkin Peter J Carroll Yung Ho Chang Jeffrey W Cody Kerry Sizheng Fan Fu Chao Ching Gu Daqing Seng Kuan Delin Lai Xing Ruan Joseph Rykwert Nancy S Steinhardt David VanZanten Rudolf Wagner Zhang Jie Zhao Chen
