

One Degree of Separation

Since 1996, T-System employees have worked hard to develop powerful solutions that positively impact the effectiveness of emergency care – today supporting more than 30 million patients every year. We achieved this through our deep knowledge of emergency medicine, our relationships with our clients and our relationships with each other.

We believe that coming to work should never be a job, but a place where you can innovate amongst friends and family. This pictorial takes an inside look at a few of the employees that make up T-System to depict how a strong corporate family lends itself to a strong company.

Proceedings of the International Workshop on Computational Intelligence in Security for Information Systems CISIS 2008 Emilio Corchado, Rodolfo Zunino, Paolo Gastaldo, 2008-10-24 The research scenario in advanced systems for protecting critical infrastructures and for deeply networked information tools highlights a growing link between security issues and the need for intelligent processing abilities in the area of information systems To face the ever evolving nature of cyber threats monitoring systems must have adaptive capabilities for continuous adjustment and timely effective response to modifications in the environment Moreover the risks of improper access pose the need for advanced identification methods including protocols to enforce computer security policies and biometry related technologies for physical authentication Computational Intelligence methods offer a wide variety of approaches that can be fruitful in those areas and can play a crucial role in the adaptive process by their ability to learn empirically and adapt a system's behaviour accordingly The International Workshop on Computational Intelligence for Security in Information Systems CISIS proposes a meeting ground to the various communities involved in building intelligent systems for security namely information security data mining adaptive learning methods and soft computing among others The main goal is to allow experts and researchers to assess the benefits of learning methods in the data mining area for information security applications The Workshop offers the opportunity to interact with the leading industries actively involved in the critical area of security and have a picture of the current solutions adopted in practical domains This volume of Advances in Soft Computing contains accepted papers presented at CISIS 08 which was held in Genova Italy on October 23rd 24th 2008
