The Classical Hollywood Cinema David

Bordwell,Janet Staiger,Kristin Thompson,2003-09-02 A dense challenging and important book Philip French Observer At the very least this blockbuster is probably the best single volume history of Hollywood we re likely to get for a very long time

Paul Kerr City Limits Persuasively argued the book is also packed with facts figures and photographs Nigel Andrews Financial Times Acclaimed for their breakthrough approach Bordwell Staiger and Thompson analyze the basic conditions of American film making as a historical institution and consider to what extent Hollywood film production constitutes a systematic enterprise in both its style and its business operations Despite differences of director genre or studio most Hollywood films operate within a set of shared assumptions about how a film should look and sound Such assumptions are neither natural nor inevitable but because classical style films have been the type most widely seen they have come to be accepted as the norm of film making and viewing The authors show how these classical conventions were formulated and standardized and how they responded to the arrival of sound colour widescreen ratios and stereophonic sound They argue that each new technological development has served a function within an existing narrational system The authors also examine how the Hollywood cinema standardized the film making process itself They describe how over the course of its history Hollywood developed distinct modes of production in a constant search for maximum efficiency predictability and novelty Set apart by its combination of theoretical analysis and empirical evidence this book is the standard work on the classical Hollywood cinema style of film making from the silent era to the 1960s Now available in paperback it is a must for film students lecturers and all those seriously interested in the development of the film industry

Restoration of Motion Picture Film

Paul Read,Mark-Paul Meyer,2000-08-14 This is the first book to bring together the work of a modern motion picture film laboratory together with the specialist techniques for preservation and restoration of archival film The books data has its origins in a training programme called FILM which was written by members of the Gamma Group with funding from the EU fund Force The committee comprised senior film archivists and technicians in charge of film conservation departments or working film laboratories within national film archives together with technicians from commercial laboratories which specialise in archival film conservation and who do not work for national and local archives The final group consisted of many of the most experienced individuals in their fields Restoration of Motion Picture Film is an extremely informative well researched book which is an unmissable addition to the bookshelves of conservators archivists and curators worldwide Film history and film conservation students will also find it of great interest and use Only book in English on this subject Prepared by leading specialists in their field Includes coverage of digital technology Movie Maker ,1971 Library Book Catalog, Author Catalog, Volume 2 United States.
