Personal Narratives in the Helping Professions is more than a teaching tool. These stories are more than thought provoking, more than simply insightful. They are truly fascinating, each a candid, no holds barred glimpse into the personal reality of its narrator and will inspire the kind of discussions that the best courses and instructors are remembered for. Your students will most likely have finished the book before the class has finished discussing the first chapter. With The Use of Personal Narratives in the Helping Professions, your students will explore family relationships under various types of stress, how families cope with physical illness, what happens to the family when a loved one struggles with mental illness, the impact of racial issues, the effects of sexual abuse and domestic violence, the process of healing from childhood trauma and much more. The Use of Personal Narratives in the Helping Professions provides first hand knowledge of what the loss of a parent to death, mental illness or alcoholism feels like to the child, of how coming out as a lesbian affects one's life, of the love and frustration of having a mentally handicapped sibling, of what it's like to lose one's memory in old age. No academic description can convey the feelings, meaning and effects on the individual or family of mental illness or other psychosocial stressors. Only narratives and stories based on direct experience, exactly what you'll find in The Use of Personal Narratives in the Helping Professions, can offer this perspective. Instructor's Manual, Principles of Social Work Practice Molly R. Hancock, 1997

Social Work and the Environment Michael Kim Zapf, 2009 This ground breaking new work provides a detailed and extensive comparison of how the physical environment has been conceptualized in social work and other professions and offers a new and attractive foundational metaphor for social work. The author acknowledges the need for greater awareness and action regarding environmental impacts and the book promotes more comprehensive notions of responsibility, identity and stewardship that lead to a dynamic metaphor of people as place as the foundation for relevant social work practice in the early 21st century. Why is that a profession with a declared focus on person in environment has been so silent on the environmental crisis? Mainstream social work theory has narrowed the understanding of environment to include merely the social environment but this approach is no longer sufficient for participation in multi disciplinary efforts to tackle urgent environmental issues. Transformative notions of responsibility, identity and stewardship have been developed on the fringes of our professional community: rural remote social workers, Aboriginal social workers and international and spiritual social workers. They must now move to the core of the profession. Understanding and Assisting Low-Income Women with Cancer Emma Jean Tedder, 2021-12-12 It is almost impossible for someone of middle class background who has never had cancer to fully understand the plight of low income women with cancer without first gaining the kind of insight that Understanding and Assisting Low Income Women with Cancer provides.
