Isabelle Fernandes,2020-10-06 The development of printing practices during Tudor rule led both to the dissemination of religious and secular knowledge and the development of a legal arsenal to control it While the vast majority of studies on censorship regard it as being at the origin of the notion of authorship critics tend to disagree on its actual influence on early modern writings Who among the Church and the secular state were its main supporters Did it aim at destroying or removing punishing or protecting hampering or regulating Did it propagate a culture of secrecy or on the contrary did it help to circulate new ideas and knowledge by controlling them and making them more acceptable to the masses If the answers to these questions are bound to differ according to the aesthetic and religious biases of both censors and censored they all lead to one major point of debate did censorship really work to stop some marginal threat or did it simply improve the lot of early modern writers who turned its limited negative effects into a comforting shield of self publicity By suggesting it suppressed neither artistic creativity nor subversive practices this volume analyses censorship in Britain and Ireland during the Tudor and Stuart periods as an instrument of regulation rather than a repressive tool Ideal for both graduate students and general readers interested in Early Modern History the work sheds new light on a topic as fascinating as it is often misunderstood

Doing News Framing Analysis II Paul D'Angelo,2018-05-11 This volume presents original big picture perspectives on news framing Each chapter in this volume will feature an individual or team of framing analysts who take a reflective look at their own empirical work The editors goals are to identify the influences that determine the use of different theoretical and methodological approaches and to provide interpretive guides to news framing scholars regarding what news frames are how they can be observed in news texts and how framing effects are uncovered and substantiated in cultural group and individual sites Doing News Framing Analysis II will continue the work of its predecessor by giving talented framing scholars the space to write about their work and bring readers closer to the framing research project

Simulating Social Complexity Bruce Edmonds, Ruth Meyer, 2017-11-24 This volume examines all aspects of using agent or individual based simulation This approach represents systems as individual elements having their own set of differing states and internal processes The interactions between elements in the simulation represent interactions in the target systems What makes this social is that it can represent an observed society Social systems include all those systems where the components have individual agency but also interact with each other This includes human societies and groups but also increasingly socio technical systems where the internet based devices form the substrate for interaction These systems are central to our lives but are among the most complex known This poses particular problems for those who wish to understand them The complexity often makes analytic approaches infeasible but on the other hand natural language approaches are also inadequate for relating intricate cause and effect This is why individual and agent based computational approaches hold out the possibility of new and deeper understanding of such systems This handbook marks the maturation of this new field It brings together summaries of the best thinking and practices in this area from leading researchers in the field and constitutes a reference point for standards against which future methodological advances can be judged This second edition adds new chapters on different modelling purposes and applying software engineering methods to simulation development Revised existing content will keep the book up to date with recent developments This volume will help those new to the field avoid reinventing the wheel each time and give them a solid and wide grounding in the essential issues It will also help those already in the field by providing accessible overviews of current thought The material is divided into four sections Introduction Methodology Mechanisms and Applications Each chapter starts with a very brief section called Why read this chapter followed by an abstract which summarizes the content of the chapter Each chapter also ends with a section on Further Reading Whilst sometimes covering technical aspects this second edition of Simulating Social Complexity is designed to be accessible to a wide range of researchers including both those from the social sciences as well as those with a more formal background It will be of use as a standard reference text in the field and also be suitable for graduate level courses

China's Internet in the 2000s Junhao Hong, 2025-02-11 This book studies China's Internet in the 2000s with a focus on the challenges and dilemmas of the authorities and the battles between the authorities and the newly networked society in the cyber space which has been a critical centerpiece in the Chinese authorities' struggle for political stability The book also examines the distinct technological means and political legal regulations/restrictions used for Internet control unique characteristics and the implications of their influences on the political change and social transformation of the world's most populous country It illuminates the fierce competition between the authorities and the newly networked Chinese society by looking at how Chinese netizens make every possible effort to gain access to the Internet for truth and make their voices and views heard while how the authorities use whatever possible means to prevent that from happening The in depth analyses of how these challenges dilemmas and battles have been affecting and changing China s political system the ruling communist ideology the public s access to information as well as the expression of the public s discourse are relevant to policymakers and analysts in both business and government sectors as well as scholars and researchers with an interest in Asian Studies Chinese Studies communication new media political science and sociology
