Convertino, Rosemarie Seewagen, Christine Monikowski, 2005-04-14 More than 146 million people in the United States have hearing losses in sufficient severity to be considered deaf another 21 million people have other hearing impairments For many deaf and hard of hearing individuals sign language and voice interpreting is essential to their participation in educational programs and their access to public and private services However there is less than half the number of interpreters needed to meet the demand interpreting quality is often variable and there is a considerable lack of knowledge of factors that contribute to successful interpreting Perhaps it is not surprising then that a study by the National Association of the Deaf NAD found that 70% of the deaf individuals are dissatisfied with interpreting quality Because recent legislation in the United States and elsewhere has mandated access to educational employment and other contexts for deaf individuals and others with hearing disabilities there is an increasing need for quality sign language interpreting It is in education however that the need is most pressing particularly because more than 75% of deaf students now attend regular schools rather than schools for the deaf where teachers and classmates are unable to sign for themselves In the more than 100 interpreter training programs in the U S alone there are a variety of educational models but little empirical information on how to evaluate them or determine their appropriateness in different interpreting and interpreter education covering what we know what we do not know and what we should know Several volumes have covered interpreting and interpreter education there are even some published dissertations that have included a single research study and a few books have attempted to offer methods for professional interpreters or interpreter educators with nods to existing research This is the first volume that synthesizes existing work and provides a coherent picture of the field as a whole including evaluation of the extent to which current practices are supported by validating research It will be the first comprehensive source suitable as both a reference book and a textbook for interpreter training programs and a variety of courses on bilingual education psycholinguistics and translation and cross linguistic studies

Understanding Deaf Culture Paddy Ladd, 2003-02-18 This book presents a Traveller's Guide to Deaf Culture starting from the premise that Deaf cultures have an important contribution to make to other academic disciplines and human lives in general Within and outside Deaf communities there is a need for an account of the new concept of Deaf culture which enables readers to assess its place alongside work on other minority cultures and multilingual discourses The book aims to assess the concepts of culture on their own terms and in their many guises and to apply these to Deaf communities The author illustrates the pitfalls which have been created for those communities by the medical concept of deafness and contrasts this with his new concept of Deafhood a process by which every Deaf child family and adult implicitly explains their existence in the world to themselves and each other

The SAGE Deaf Studies Encyclopedia Genie Gertz,Patrick Boudreault,2016-01-05 The time has come for a new in depth encyclopedic collection of articles defining the current state of Deaf Studies at an international level and using the critical and intersectional lens encompassing the field The emergence of Deaf Studies programs at colleges and universities and the broadened knowledge of social sciences including but not limited to Deaf History Deaf Culture Signed Languages Deaf Bilingual Education Deaf Art and more have served to expand the activities of research teaching analysis and curriculum development The field has experienced a major shift due to increasing awareness of Deaf Studies research since the mid 1960s The field has been further influenced by the Deaf community s movement resistance activism and politics worldwide as well as the impact of technological advances such as in communications with cell phones computers and other devices A major goal of this new encyclopedia is to shift focus away from the Medical Pathological Model that would view Deaf individuals as needing to be fixed in order to correct hearing and speaking deficiencies for the sole purpose of assimilating into mainstream society By contrast The Deaf Studies Encyclopedia seeks to carve out a new and critical perspective on Deaf Studies with the focus that the Deaf are not a people with a disability to be treated and cured medically but rather are

Skordilis, 2016-05-31 Deaf children are not hearing children who can't hear Beyond any specific effects of hearing loss as a group they are far more diverse than hearing peers Lack of full access to language incidental learning and social interactions as well as the possibility of secondary disabilities means that deaf learners face a variety of challenges in academic domains Technological innovations such as digital hearing aids and cochlear implants have improved hearing and the possibility of spoken language for many deaf learners but parents teachers and other professionals are just now coming to recognize that there are cognitive experiential and social emotional differences between deaf and hearing students likely to affect academic outcomes Sign languages and schools and programs for deaf learners thus remain an important part of the continuum of services needed for this diverse population. Understanding such diversity and determining ways in which to accommodate them must become a top priority in educating deaf learners. Through the participation of an international interdisciplinary set of scholars, Diversity in Deaf Education takes a broad view of learning and academic progress, considering the whole child in the context of the family, languages, educational settings in which they are immersed. In adopting this perspective, the complexities and commonalities in the social, emotional, cognitive, and linguistic mosaic of which the deaf child is a part are captured. It is only through such a holistic consideration of diverse children developing within diverse settings that we can understand their academic potentials.
