Twentieth Century Christian Responses to Religious Pluralism David Pitman, 2016-02-17 Twentieth Century Christian Responses to Religious Pluralism begins with the recognition that the traditional three fold typology adopted by Christians in responding to other living world religions is no longer adequate and offers a much more sophisticated and developed approach This is accomplished with particular reference to ten key Twentieth Century theologians each of whom had significant influence in the field of inter religious studies both during their lifetime and beyond The author rejects the exclusivism and triumphalism of traditional Christian approaches and argues strongly and persuasively that the future for inter religious relationships lies in what he describes as classical pluralism and in an understanding of the importance of difference for inter faith dialogue Presenting an accessible introduction to the contemporary issues and challenges facing all those engaged in the further development of inter faith relationships dialogue and partnership between the world religions Pitman argues that the future of world peace and prosperity depends on the outcome

My Journey as a Religious Pluralist Alan Race,2021-06-02 Christian theology of religions remains a central component of the Christian response to global religious diversity In the face of theological refusals to engage with issues of religious absolutism and new impressions from interreligious encounters this book seeks to inject fresh energy into a debate that has stalled in recent years The encounter between Christians and people of different religious persuasions raises questions of how to interpret Christian absolutism for a new and developing consciousness that values the experience of the religious other This book argues that interreligious dialogue interreligious ethical collaboration and comparative studies all point to a pluralist future where we are obliged to recognize the spiritual authenticity of the experience animating many religions Building friendly relations between faith communities is to be applauded but it is insufficient in the face of the many challenges confronting the global human community Whether we are speaking of cooperation in civil society peace in the world or the overarching ecological crisis encompassing the planet as a whole the acceptance of the diversity of religions as a positive religious value will strengthen the sense of global responsibility that is needed

Islam in Indonesia which contains the world's largest Muslim population as well as the present day ways by which the government may address issues through reconciling international human rights law and Islamic law. Given the context of multiple sets of religious norms in Indonesia this is a complicated endeavour. In addition to amending and enacting human rights norms the government is also negotiating with the long history of Islamisation in Indonesia. Particularly relevant is the practice of customary law which puts the rights of community over individualism. This practice directly affects the rights of religious minorities within Islam. Readers especially those conducting research will also be provided with information and references which are relevant to the field of human rights especially in relation to religious minorities and international law. The book will be a valuable resource for academics and researchers in the fields of International Human Rights Law, Law and Religion and Islamic Studies.

Democratic Citizenship Education in Non-Western Contexts Serhiy Kovalchuk, Anatoli Rapoport, 2020-06-09 This book examines the issues of theorizing citizenship education research in non-Western societies that have embarked on democratic development after the fall of authoritarianism and colonialism. Despite a proliferation of studies on citizenship and citizenship education in non-Western contexts there has been limited theorization of this research and little discussion of the applicability to such contexts of Western theoretical frameworks. This volume addresses these issues through empirical case studies of citizenship conceptions, practices and education in South and West Africa, Latin America, Central Europe and the Middle East. The contributors to the volume call into question the uncritical application of Western theoretical frameworks to non-Western societies and advocate for the development and wider application of new paradigms rooted in local processes and indigenous knowledge to better understand and theorize citizenship and citizenship education in such societies. This volume will be of interest to scholars, researchers and practitioners working in the field of comparative and international citizenship education. It was originally published as a special issue of Compare: A Journal of Comparative and International Education.

Islam and Politics in Bangladesh Mubashar Hasan, 2020-01-27 This book conceptualizes the politics of Bangladesh through an Islamic concept called ummah or the global brotherhood of Muslims. It demonstrates that against the backdrop of geopolitics, capitalism and free flow of ideas, localization of this global religious concept at individual level, institutional level, major party platforms and state has cemented the current political condition in Bangladesh in which religiosity, religious intolerance, Islamization and extremism take place. By exploring the effects of ummah in Bangladeshi politics, this book shows how major political parties have mainstreamed political Islam in the country. The book rejects the long-standing scholarly claim of religious/secular distinction in Bangladeshi politics and argues that with most Muslim-dominated states there are no major secular parties in Bangladesh There are only Islamic parties which are more or less Islamic The purely rational domain of politics in Bangladesh is long lost and political Islam sets the framework for politics in the country The reason behind this logic of Bangladeshi politics is formed contained and expanded by ummah Forgiveness, Peacemaking, and Reconciliation David K. Ngaruiya, Rodney L. Reed, 2020-12-31 In this fifth volume from the Africa Society of Evangelical Theology contributors explore forgiveness peacemaking and reconciliation as necessary prerequisites for human flourishing Ranging from biblical studies and church history to medical ethics and public theology this collection offers a rich diversity of voices and perspectives as each author reflects on God's heart for conflict alleviation within the contexts of their own communities nations histories and academic disciplines Taken together these contributions offer profound insight into both the particularities and generalities of God's transformative healing work in the world and how we the church are called to partner with that work in Africa and beyond Faith and Human Rights Richard Amesbury, G. M. Newlands, This book argues that the idea of human rights is not exclusively religious but that its realization in practice requires urgent action on the part of people of all faiths and of none Acknowledging the ambiguous moral legacy of their own tradition Christianity the authors draw on christological themes to draft blueprints for a culturally sensitive theology of human rights

Communicative Freedom Willem Fourie, 2012 Freedom is modernity's most important promise but also its most controversial promise No other concept has led to so many expectations disappointments changes and destruction This book examines German theologian and ethicist Wolfgang Huber's concept of communicative freedom which is proposed as a contribution to the debate on freedom within modernity It is argued that communicative freedom integrates radically different understandings of freedom into one comprehensive concept This concept allows for a constructive and critical affirmation of modernity Series Theology in the Public Square Theologie in der Öffentlichkeit Vol 3 Jesus Christ and the Religions Hans Waldenfels, 2009
