Rural Tradition:

Body and Tradition in Nineteenth-century France William Pooley, 2019 The moorlands of Gascony are often considered one of the most dramatic examples of top down rural modernization in nineteenth century Europe From an area of open moors they were transformed in one generation into the largest man made forest in Europe Body and Tradition in Nineteenth Century France explores how these changes were experienced and negotiated by the people who lived there drawing on the immense ethnographic archive of Felix Arnaudin 1844 1921 The study places the songs stories and everyday speech that Arnaudin collected as well as the photographs he took in the everyday lives of agricultural workers and artisans It argues that the changes were understood as a gradual revolution in bodily experiences as men and women forged new working habits new sexual relations and new ways of conceiving of their own bodies Rather than merely presenting a story of top down reform this is an account of the flexibility and creativity of the cultural traditions of the working population William G Pooley tells the story of the folklorist Arnaudin and the men and women whose cultural traditions he recorded then uncovers the work carried out by Arnaudin to explore everyday speech about the body stories of werewolves and shapeshifters tales of animal cunning and exploitation and songs about love and courtship The volume focuses on the lives of a handful of the most talented storytellers and singers Arnaudin encountered showing how their cultural choices reflect wider patterns of behaviour in the region and across rural Europe

The Invention of Tradition Eric Hobsbawm, Terence Ranger, 2012-03-26 Many of the traditions which we think of as very ancient in their origins were not in fact sanctioned by long usage over the centuries but were invented comparatively recently This book explores examples of this process of invention the creation of Welsh and Scottish national culture the elaboration of British royal rituals in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries the origins of imperial rituals in British India and Africa and the attempts by radical movements to develop counter traditions of their own It addresses the complex interaction of past and present bringing together historians and anthropologists in a fascinating study of ritual and symbolism which poses new questions for the understanding of our history

The Defence of Tradition in Brazilian Popular Music Sean Stroud, 2016-03-23 Sean Stroud examines how and why Música Popular Brasileira (MPB) has come to have such a high status and why the musical tradition including MPB within Brazil has been defended with such vigour for so long. He emphasizes the importance of musical nationalism as an underlying ideology to discussions about Brazilian popular music since the 1920s and the key debate on so-called cultural invasion in Brazil. The roles of those responsible for the construction of the idea of MPB are examined in detail. Stroud analyses the increasingly close relationship that has developed between television and popular music in Brazil with particular reference to the post-1972 televised song festivals. He goes on to consider the impact of the Brazilian record industry in the light of theories of cultural imperialism and globalization and also evaluates governmental intervention relating to popular music in the 1970s. The importance of folklore and tradition in popular music that is present in both Rio de Janeiro and Recife is clearly emphasized. Stroud contrasts these two projects with Hermano Vianna and Ita Cultural's similar ventures at the end of the twentieth century that took a totally different view of musical authenticity and tradition. Stroud concludes that the defence of musical traditions in Brazil is inextricably bound up with nationalistic sentiments and a desire to protect and preserve MPB is the musical expression of the Brazilian middle class and has traditionally acted as a cultural icon because it is associated with notions of quality by certain sectors of the media.

Handbook of Research on Urban-Rural Synergy Development Through Housing, Landscape, and Tourism Krstić-Furundžić, Aleksandra, Djukić, Aleksandra, 2019-11-29 As cities continue to grow with advancing technologies the spatial and temporal gaps between rural and urban areas are shrinking thereby requiring the sectors to interact with each other. While highlighting topics including suburbanization, weekend residence zones and homeostasis, this publication is ideally designed for architects, sector managers, region developers, urban planners, urban developers, construction managers, urban studies professionals, academicians, researchers and students seeking current research on lessening the urban-rural gap in both global and local contexts.

The Cost of Equality Evans Netshivhambe,2025-09-10 This book delves into the overlooked ethnic marginalization of South Africa s minority groups Venda Tsonga Ndebele and Swati highlighting the enduring inequalities shaped by colonialism and apartheid While much research focuses on racial divides between black and white races this work emphasizes how the same oppressive systems privileged majority ethnic groups over minorities of the same race but different cultural origins Focusing on the development of media particularly radio broadcasting from the 1920s and TV broadcasting from the 1970s the book reveals how minority languages cultures and music have been systematically underrepresented and confined to limited platforms to this day Colonialism in Africa thrived through a deliberate divide and conquer strategy whereby ethnic groups were systematically segregated and categorized according to language culture and their numerical status as majority or minority populations This strategy was not merely administrative it was a calculated mechanism of control that sowed deep divisions among African communities By encouraging rivalry and distrust between ethnic groups colonial powers fostered a legacy of internalized prejudice and animosity Many African societies were made to view one another as adversaries and over time dangerous beliefs were naturalized such as the idea that certain ethnic groups were inherently superior or that leadership political power and societal success were the rightful domain of only a select few groups
