Mount Everest Reconnaissance Expedition:

Everest 1951 Eric Shipton, 2013-11-29 In 1953 Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay reached the summit of Mount Everest They climbed from the south from Nepal via the Khumbu Glacier a route first pioneered in 1951 by a reconnaissance expedition led by Eric Shipton Everest 1951 is the account of this expedition It was the first to approach the mountain from the south side it pioneered a route through the Khumbu icefall and it was the expedition on which Hillary set foot on Everest for the first time Everest 1951 is a short but vitally important read for anybody with any interest in mountaineering or in Everest The 1951 Everest Expedition marked the public highpoint of Shipton's mountaineering fame Key information was discovered and the foundations laid for future success Despite this Shipton's critics felt he had a lack of trust and thus failed to match the urgent mood of the period Despite having been on more Everest expeditions than any man alive he was eased out of the crucial leadership role in 1953 and so missed the huge public acclaim given to Hillary Tenzing Norgay and John Hunt after their historic success

MOUNT EVEREST - The First Expedition of 1921 (Illustrated Edition) Charles Kenneth Howard-Bury, 2018-11-09

The 1921 British Mount Everest reconnaissance expedition set off to explore how it might be possible to get to the vicinity of Mount Everest to reconnoiter possible routes for ascending the mountain and if possible make the first ascent of the highest mountain in the world. A feasible route was discovered from the east up the Kharta Glacier and then crossing the Lhakpa La pass north east of Everest. It was then necessary to descend to the East Rongbuk Glacier before climbing again to Everest's North Col. Initially the expedition explored from the north and discovered the main Rongbuk Glacier only to find that it seemed to provide no likely routes to the summit. However at the time it was not realised that the East Rongbuk glacier actually flowed into the Rongbuk glacier; it was thought it descended away to the east. As a reconnaissance the expedition was a success because it determined that a good route might be to approach the East Rongbuk glacier via the Rongbuk glacier and then follow the North Col route to the summit.

Everest & Conquest in the Himalaya Richard Sale, George Rodway, 2011-07-12 A history of those who have scaled Mount Everest and the advances in mountaineering over a century At one time the summits of the world s highest peaks Everest included were beyond reach Pioneering attempts to overcome the dangers of climbing at extremely high altitudes ended in failure sometimes with disastrous consequences Yet today high altitude ascents are frequent almost commonplace Everest can be conquered by relatively inexperienced mountaineers and their exploits barely merit media attention unless they go fatally wrong This dramatic history of Everest climbs describes in vivid detail the struggle to conquer the mountain and the advances in scientific knowledge that made the conquest possible It also offers compelling insight into the science of mountaineering as well as the physical and psychological challenges faced by individuals who choose to test themselves in some of the harshest conditions on earth

Alone to Everest Earl Denman, 2018-12-01 The story of some of Earl Denman s mountaineering exploits to Africa culminating in his journey in 1947 through Tibet to Everest with Tenzing Norgay later to become one of the first two individuals known to reach the summit of Mount Everest is here told for the first time Alone to Everest tells the remarkable story of a remarkable man Among many present day accounts of hardship and adventure it stands out as the testimony of a man for whom modern civilisation and modern equipment mean little and who is happiest as he says walking barefoot on warm grass or wet rocks in probing deep into cool quiet forests in days of healthy activity and evenings of restfulness spent beside a warming fire Denman s achievements in the Belgian Congo where with only local guides as companions he became one of the first men to climb all eight of the high and remove Virunga Mountains made him realise that he would never rest until he had made a similar expedition to the highest mountain in the world At the time 250 was all he had in the world his equipment was of the simplest and cheapest His journey by sea and land to Darjeeling was made under great difficulties His meeting with Karma Paul who introduced him to Tenzing and his friend Ang Dowa was entirely fortuitous he was expressly forbidden to enter Tibet Nepal at that time was entirely closed to the Western world Yet with all these handicaps he and the two Sherpas set off alone from Darjeeling made their way with many mishaps through Sikkim and Tibet to the Rongbuk monastery and thence to Everest itself Appalling weather conditions finally drove them back but not before they had attained a height of 23 500 feet Everest has now been climbed and no doubt will be again But Denman s feat though superficially unsuccessful remains a triumph against fantastic odds
