Positively Women Living With Aids:

Positively Women Sue O'Sullivan, Kate Thomson, 1996-01-01 Profiles the lives of twelve women with AIDS explores the effects HIV AIDS has on women's lives and offers resources for women with the disease Positively Women Sue O'Sullivan, Kate Thomson, 1992 A variety of women describe how they cope with the fact that they are HIV positive or have AIDS As well as providing personal testimony and experience the book also includes factual advice on housing medical information safer sex and pregnancy and childbirth information Women, Motherhood and Living with HIV/AIDS Pranee Liamputtong, 2013-03-12 There are about 34 million people worldwide living with HIV AIDS Half are women There has been a dramatic global increase in the rates of women living with HIV AIDS Among young women especially in developing countries infection rates are rapidly increasing Many of these women are also mothers with young infants When a woman is labeled as having HIV she is treated with suspicion and her morality is being questioned Previous research has suggested that women living with HIV AIDS can be affected by delay in diagnosis inferior access to health care services internalized stigma and a poor utilization of health services This makes it extremely difficult for women to take care of their own health needs Women are also reluctant to disclose their HIV positive status as they fear this may result in physical feelings of shame social ostracism violence or expulsion from home Women living with HIV AIDS who are also mothers carry a particularly heavy burden of being HIV infected This unique book attempts to put together results from empirical research and focuses on issues relevant to women motherhood and living with HIV AIDS which have occurred to individual women in different parts of the globe The book comprises chapters written by researchers who carry out their projects in different parts of the world and each chapter contains empirical information based on real life situations This can be used as evidence for health care providers to implement socially and culturally appropriate services to assist individuals and groups who are living with HIV AIDS in many societies The book is of interest to scholars and students in the domains of anthropology sociology social work nursing public health medicine and health professionals who have a specific interest in issues concerning women who are mothers and living with HIV AIDS from cross cultural perspective Women, Families and HIV/AIDS Carole A. Campbell, 1999-04-13 Carole Campbell examines the position of women in the AIDS epidemic women living with HIV and women caring for HIV infected family members in a sociocultural context Campbell draws a connection among women's risk of AIDS gender roles particularly adolescent gender role socialization and male sexual behavior demonstrating that efforts to contain the spread of the disease to females must also target the male behavior that puts women at risk This study concludes that compared with men HIV infected women face unequal access to care and unequal quality of care Informed by the moving personal accounts of eleven HIV infected men and women this book offers a rare broad picture of the sociocultural causes and the impact on American society of AIDS among women Living with HIV and Dying with AIDS Lesley Doyal, 2016-05-13 There is now a vast literature on HIV and AIDS but much of it is based on traditional biomedical or epidemiological approaches Hence it tells us very little about the experiences of the millions of people whose living and dying constitute the reality of this devastating pandemic Doyal brings together findings from a wide range of empirical studies spanning the social sciences to explore experiences of HIV positive people across the world This will illustrate how the disease is physically manifested and psychologically internalised by individuals in diverse ways depending on the biological social cultural and economic circumstances in which they find themselves A proper understanding of these commonalities and differences will be essential if future strategies are to be effective in mitigating the effects of HIV and AIDS Doyal shows that such initiatives will also require a better appreciation of the needs and rights of those affected within the wider context of global inequalities and injustices Finally she outlines approaches to address these challenges This book will appeal to everyone involved in struggles to improve the well being of those with HIV and AIDS While academically rigorous it is written in an accessible manner that transcends specific disciplines and through its extensive bibliography provides diverse source material for future teaching learning and research
