Secularism Islam Modernity:

Formations of the Secular Talal Asad, 2003-02-03 A dark but brilliantly original work one of the most important books on religion and the modern in recent years H Net Reviews Opening with the provocative query what might an anthropology of the secular look like this book explores the concepts practices and political formations of secularism with emphasis on the major historical shifts that have shaped secular sensibilities and attitudes in the modern West and the Middle East Talal Asad proceeds to dismantle commonly held assumptions about the secular and the terrain it allegedly covers He argues that while anthropologists have oriented themselves to the study of the strangeness of the non European world and to what are seen as non rational dimensions of social life things like myth taboo and religion the modern and the secular have not been adequately examined The conclusion is that the secular cannot be viewed as a successor to religion or be seen as on the side of the rational It is a category with a multi layered history related to major premises of modernity democracy and the concept of human rights This book will appeal to anthropologists historians religious studies scholars as well as scholars working on modernity A difficult if stunningly eloquent book a response both elusive and forthright to the many shelves of books on terrorism which this country's trade publishers are rushing into print Bryn Mawr Review of Comparative Literature This wonderfully illuminating book should be read alongside the author's Genealogies of Religion Religion One of the most interesting scholars of religious writing today Christian Scholar's Review Asad's brilliant study remains a defining piece of intellectual and scholarly contribution for all of those interested in exploring the religious and the secular in the modern era The American Journal of Islamic Social Sciences

Secularism, Islam and Modernity 'Ālam Khvundmīrī, 2001-07-23 Syed Alam Khundmiri 1922-83 was an important intellectual figure of his times a true humanist with rare philosophical insights ranging over a wide field The volume brings together Khundmiri's seminal essays which set out his dominant concerns Marxism with its indifference to questions of minorities in nationalism existentialism which he saw as being closed off to the problems of community and Islam which he examined in relation to history and notions of time and change Overall this absorbing collection of essays encapsulates Khundmiri's dual project of situating Islam in the modern context and scrutinizing the modern in the light of Islam Particularly relevant in the present context of the increasing sacralization of politics it will be read with great interest by students and scholars of philosophy history sociology Islamic studies Marxism comparative religion cultural studies and political and social theory as well as by the aware and concerned lay reader

Modernity, Islam, And Secularism In Turkey Alev Çinar, A fascinating look at the relation between Islam and modernity Islam and Secularity Nilüfer Göle, 2015-10-23 In Islam and Secularity Nil fer G le takes on two pressing issues the transforming relationship between Islam and Western secular modernity and the impact of the Muslim presence in Europe G le shows how the visibility of Islamic practice in the European public sphere unsettles narratives of Western secularism As mutually constitutive Islam and secularism permeate each other the effects of which play out in embodied and aesthetic practices and are accompanied by fear anxiety and violence In this timely book G le illuminates the recent rethinking of secularism and religion of modernity and resistance to it of the public significance of sexuality and of the shifting terrain of identity in contemporary Europe Islam, Modernity, and the Liminal Space Between Mark W. Anand,2008 In this dissertation I explore social identity secularism and Indian Muslims conceptions and experiences of living in a secular state while debating among themselves the meanings of ethical Muslim selfhood Through participant observation and interviews based on over 15months of intensive field research undertaken in a predominantly Muslim area of south east Mumbai my research focused on two groups of Muslim men middle class entrepreneurs and householders in their early to mid thirties and senior students from their late teens to early twenties from a madrasa Islamic seminary attached to a prominent mosque in the city Owing to its complex and intense dynamism I also emphasize the city as an important agent in shaping everyday life The core of my work is to explore secular life and secularism central to India s liberal conception of itself as a pluralist democracy that emerge through the lived experiences of Muslim men engaging with various daily pressures and transactions in an intensely dynamic urban context while trying to maintain a self understood to be ethical in terms of an inherited Islamic tradition In discussing everyday phenomena such as piety and religious authority gender childraising popular culture personal and professional pursuits and ethical conduct I demonstrate that the ostensibly religious domain of Islam is not necessarily the only or even primary basis for achieving selfhood for even those who identify as observant and devout Muslims Rather I argue the religious domain of Islam in this context is defined as such and intersected by discourses and practices of the self as a political and economic agent that is a self defined in terms of political modernity Thus this dissertation also contributes to the current anthropological rethinking of categories like religion secularism and politics in relation to social processes and subjects a series of projects that are related in the Indian context to modernity and liberal conceptions of statehood sovereignty and personhood A major conclusion of this work is that while most Indian Muslims have largely internalized and accept the liberal differentiation of politics and religion the modern secular project in India nevertheless remains incomplete

Islam and Modernity in Turkey B. Silverstein, 2011-01-31 In contrast to much of the Muslim world a majority of Turks consider Islam to be primarily a matter of personal choice and private belief How did such an arrangement come about Moreover most observant Muslims in Turkey do not see such a conception and practice of Islam as illegitimate Why not Islam and Modernity in Turkey addresses these questions through an ethnographic study of Islamic discourses and practices and their articulation with mass media in Turkey against the background of late Ottoman and early Republican precedents This ground breaking book sheds new light on issues of commensurability and difference in culture religion and history and reformulates our understanding of Islam secularism and public life in Turkey the Muslim world and Europe

Islamic Modernism S. M. A. Sayeed, 1990
