The World-System as Unit of Analysis Roberto Patricio Korzeniewicz, 2017-09-22 World system analyses have recast the study of between and within nation country inequality as constituent aspects of a single field of inquiry the study of inequality and social stratification as processes that always have been global in their very essence World system analyses maintain that global social stratification pivots around institutional arrangements that render distributional outcomes as simultaneously national gendered racialized and global processes This book takes stock of some of the enduring theoretical and empirical contributions of a world system perspective and identifies promising directions for future inquiry and discussion. Some chapters reassess the scope and methodologies of world system analysis around several key problems e.g. the spatial and temporal boundaries of global commodity chains, the construction and challenge of various dimensions of social inequality, systemic and antisystemic social movements. Others take stock of areas in which world systems are promoting methodological innovation and/or generating useful global data and identify questions that demand additional methodological and empirical attention for future research. In different ways, this book helps us to critically reconsider some of the enduring legacies within a world system perspective, such as Karl Polanyi's concept of the double movement or the distinction drawn by Giovanni Arrighi or Immanuel Wallerstein between systemic and antisystemic movements. As argued by many of the authors in this book, a world historical approach calls for greater sensitivity to the manifold ways in which conceptual boundaries change over time and space. Taking seriously the issue of unit of analysis, this book explores critically productive ways for better understanding global patterns of continuity and change. Seeds Saving Techniques: Morgan O.

Sustainability and food production represent a major challenge to society, with both consumption and supply sides posing practical and ethical dilemmas. This book shows that food governance issues can occur in many ways and at many points along the food chain. The risks and impacts, particularly with the increasing globalisation of food systems, are often distributed in unequal ways. It is the role of law to form the pivot around which these issues are addressed in society, in the form of food governance mechanisms. The chapters in this book address a range of issues in food governance revolving around questions of justice, fairness, equality, and human rights. They identify different issues regarding inequality in access and control over food governance Some address generic governance and institutional issues across a range of international contexts while others present case studies including from Argentina China India Indonesia Thailand UK and West Africa The book offers directions for reform of the law and legal institutions to mitigate the dangers of inequality and promote greater fairness in food governance Bountiful Seeds: Community Seed Banks for Climate Resilience Jeannie Barnett,2025-03-14

The Incoherence of Human Rights in International Law Louisa Ashley, Nicolette Butler, 2024-09-02 Incoherence is a term that is all too often associated with the public international law regime To a great extent its incoherence is arguably a natural consequence of the fragmented nature of both the development and overall scope of the discipline Despite significant achievements since the Universal Declaration of Human Rights 1948 a coherent human rights regime that is properly integrated with other branches of public international law is still lacking This book explores this incoherent approach to human rights including specific challenges that arise as a result of the creation and regulation of legal relationships between parties state and non state that sit outside of the human rights framework with a view to considering how it may be remedied Divided into three parts the collection provides a critical exploration of various challenges and barriers related to the absence of human rights in some instances contemporary emergence of rights and a lack of rights fulfilment in others These three situations are considered within the wider context of and difficulties facing a human rights based approach to international law Each of the three parts aligns with one of the three prime responsibilities and duties of states in respect of international human rights to promote to protect and to fulfil The contributions represent different perspectives in international law and human rights and how the global agenda of promoting human rights the rules based international order and multilateralism requires further strengthening the lens of incoherence providing a means to understand particular inconsistencies Chapters focus upon subjects including international investment law international financial contracts the arms trade indigenous peoples rights rights of peasants the right to a clean healthy and sustainable environment the right to food and transitional justice Presenting a critical exploration of key contemporary challenges and the implementation of human rights law in different contexts the collection will be of interest to a wide ranging audience of international law and international relations scholars and practitioners and students of law politics and globalisation across the world

Ignatova, 2021-05-20 Genetically modified crops have become a key element of development strategies across the Global South despite remaining deeply controversial Proponents hail them as an example of pro poor innovation while critics regard them as a threat to food sovereignty and the environment The promotion of biotechnology is an integral part of new Green Revolution for Africa interventions and is also intimately linked to the rise of philanthrocapitalism which advances business solutions to address the problem of poverty Through interviews with farmers policymakers and agricultural scientists Jacqueline Ignatova shows how efforts to transform the seed sector in northern Ghana one of the key laboratories of this new Green Revolution may serve to exacerbate the inequality it was notionally intended to address But she also argues that its effects in Ghana have been far more complex than either side of the debate has acknowledged with local farmers proving adept at blending traditional and modern agricultural methods that subvert the interests of global agribusiness

Critical Perspectives on Food Sovereignty Marc Edelman, 2017-10-02 This volume is a pioneering contribution to the study of food politics and critical agrarian studies where food sovereignty has emerged as a pivotal concept over the past few decades with a wide variety of social movements on the ground experiments and policy innovations flying under its broad banner Despite its large and growing popularity the history theoretical foundations and political program of food sovereignty have only occasionally received in depth analysis and critical scrutiny This collection brings together both longstanding scholars in critical agrarian studies such as Philip McMichael Bina Agarwal Henry Bernstein Jan Douwe van der Ploeg and Marc Edelman as well as a dynamic roster of early and mid career researchers The ultimate aim is to advance this important frontier of research and organizing and put food sovereignty on stronger footing as a mobilizing frame a policy objective and a plan of action for the human future This volume was published as part one of the special double issue celebrating the 40th anniversary of the Journal of Peasant Studies

Africa's Radicalisms and Conservatisms, 2022-10-31

Volume II of Africa's Radicalisms and Conservatisms continues the broad themes of radicalisms and conservatisms that were examined in volume I. Like volume I, the essays examine why the two isms of radicalisms and conservatisms should not be viewed as mere irreconcilable conceptual tools with which to categorize or structure knowledge. The volume demonstrates that these concepts are intertwined, have multiple and diverse meanings as perceived and understood from different disciplinary vantage points, hence the deliberate pluralization of the terms. The twenty-two essays in the volume show what happens when one juxtaposes the two concepts and when different peoples lived experiences of politics, pop culture, democracy, liberalism, the environment, colonialism, migration, identities and knowledge, etc. across the length and breadth of Africa are brought to bear on our understandings of these two particularisms.
