Howard Rachlin PhD

Seeing Red At Green Lights:

Secret Worlds Martin Stevens, 2021-06-10 Martin Stevens explores the extraordinary variety of senses in the animal kingdom and discusses the cutting edge science that is shedding light on these secret worlds Our senses of vision smell taste hearing and touch are essential for us to respond to threats communicate and interact with the world around us This is true for all animals their sensory systems are key to survival and without them animals would be completely helpless However the sensory systems of other animals work very differently from ours For example many animals from spiders to birds can detect and respond to ultraviolet light to which we are blind Other animals including many insects rodents and bats can hear high frequency ultrasonic sounds well beyond our own hearing range Many other species have sensory systems that we lack completely such as the magnetic sense of birds turtles and other animals or the electric sense of many fish These differences in sensory ability have a major bearing on the ways that animals behave and live in different environments and also affect their evolution and ecology In this book Martin Stevens explores the remarkable sensory systems that exist in nature and what they are used for Discussing how different animal senses work he also considers how they evolve how they are shaped by the environment in which an animal lives and the pioneering science that has uncovered how animals use their senses Throughout he celebrates the remarkable diversity of life and shows how the study of sensory systems has shed light on some of the most important issues in animal behaviour physiology and evolution

The Escape of the Mind Howard Rachlin PhD, 2014-06-02 The Escape of the Mind is part of a current movement in psychology and philosophy of mind that calls into question what is perhaps our most basic most cherished and universally accepted belief that our minds are inside of our bodies Howard Rachlin adopts the counterintuitive position that our minds conscious and unconscious lie not where our firmest yet unsupported introspections tell us they are but in how we actually behave over the long run Perhaps paradoxically the book argues that our introspections no matter how positive we are about them tell us absolutely nothing about our minds The name of the present version of this approach to the mind is teleological behaviorism The approaches of teleological behaviorism will be useful in the science of individual behavior for developing methods of self control and in the science of social behavior for developing social cooperation Without in any way denigrating the many contributions of neuroscience to human welfare The Escape of the Mind argues that neuroscience like introspection is not a royal road to the understanding of the mind Where then should we look to explain a present act that is clearly caused by the mind Teleological behaviorism says to look not in the spatial recesses of the nervous system not to the mechanism underlying the act but in the temporal recesses of past and future overt behavior to the pattern of which the act is a part But scientific usefulness is not the only reason for adopting teleological behaviorism The final two chapters on IBM's computer Watson how it deviates from humanity and how it would have to be altered to make it human and on shaping a coherent self provide a framework for a secular morality based on teleological behaviorism
