exemplifies a model in which ethnic consciousness and ethnic relations consist of drawing boundaries between one's own group and others crossing those boundaries and promoting internal unity within a group. Leaders and members of ethnic groups use commonalities and differences in history, culture and kinship to promote internal unity and to strengthen or cross external boundaries. Superimposed on the structure of competing and cooperating local groups is a state system of ethnic classification and administration; members and leaders of local groups incorporate this system into their own ethnic consciousness, co-opting or resisting it situationally. The heart of the book consists of detailed case studies of three Nuosu village communities along with studies of Prmi and Naze communities, smaller groups such as the Yala and Nasu, and Han Chinese who live in minority areas. These are followed by a synthesis that compares different configurations of ethnic identity in different communities and discusses the implications of these examples for our understanding of ethnicity and for the near future of China. This lively description and analysis of the region's complex ethnic identities and relationships constitutes an original and important contribution to the study of ethnic identity. Ways of Being Ethnic in Southwest China will be of interest to social scientists concerned with issues of ethnicity and state building.

Women and Gender in Contemporary Chinese Societies Shanshan Du, Ya-chen Chen, 2013-03-04. Recent attention to historical, geographic and class differences in the studies of women and gender in China has expanded our understanding of the diversity and complexity of gendered China. Nevertheless, the ethnic dimension of this subject matter remains largely overlooked, particularly concerning women's conditions and gender status. Consequently, the patriarchy and its oppression of women among the Han, the ethnic majority in China, are often inaccurately or erroneously associated with the whole gendered heritage of China epitomized by the infamous traditions of footbinding and female infanticide. Such academic and popular predisposition belies the fact that gender systems in China span a wide spectrum ranging from extreme Han patriarchy to Lahu gender egalitarianism. The authors contributing to this book have collectively initiated a systematic effort to bridge the gap between understanding the majority Han and ethnic minorities in regard to women and gender in contemporary Chinese societies. By achieving a quantitative balance between articles on the Han majority and those on ethnic minorities, this book transcends the ghettoization of ethnic minorities in the studies of Chinese women and gender. The eleven chapters of this volume are divided into three sections which jointly challenge the traditions and norms of Han patriarchy from various perspectives. The first section focuses on gender traditions among ethnic minorities which compete with the norms of Han patriarchy. The second section emphasizes the impact of radical social transformation on gender systems and practices among both Han and ethnic minorities. The third section underscores socio-cultural diversity and complexity in resistance to Han patriarchal norms from a broad perspective. This book complements previous scholarship on Chinese women and gender by expanding our investigative lens beyond Han patriarchy and providing images of the multiethnic landscape of China. By identifying the Han as an ethnically marked category and by bringing to the forefront the diverse gender systems of ethnic minorities, this book encourages an increasing awareness of and sensitivity to the cross cultural diversity of gendered China both in academia and beyond A Handbook for Social Science Field Research Ellen Perecman, Sara R. Explorers and Scientists in China's Borderlands, 1880-1950 Denise M. Glover, Stevan Harrell, Charles F. McKhann, Margaret Byrne Swain, 2012-09-01 The scientists and explorers profiled in this engaging study of pioneering Euro American exploration of late imperial and Republican China range from botanists to ethnographers to missionaries Although a diverse lot all believed in objective progressive and universally valid science a close association between scientific and humanistic knowledge a lack of conflict between science and faith and the union of the natural world and the world of nature people Explorers and Scientists in China's Borderlands examines their cultural and personal assumptions while emphasizing their remarkable lives and considers their contributions to a body of knowledge that has important contemporary significance

Essays are devoted to D C Graham Joseph Rock Reginald Farrer and George Forrest Ernest Henry Wilson Paul Vial Johan Gunnar Andersson and Ding Wenjiang and Friedrich Weiss and Hedwig Weiss Sonnenburg Richly illustrated with historic photographs this collection reveals the extraordinary lives and times of these remarkable people Language, Culture, and Identity among Minority Students in China Yuxiang Wang, 2013-03-05 This book explores Hui one of the Muslim minority groups in China students lived experiences in an elementary school in central P R China from the perspectives of philosophical foundations of education and the sociology of education the impact of their experiences on their identity construction and what schooling means to Hui students The book describes a vivid picture of how the Hui construct their own identities in the public school setting and how the state curricula teachers and parents play roles in student identity construction The objectives of the book are to discover factors that impact Hui students identity construction and have caused Hui students to know little about their own culture and language and to explore what should be done to help teachers administrators and policy makers appreciate minority culture and include minority culture and knowledge in school curriculum in order to meet the needs of Hui students The book provides historical policy and curricular contexts for readers to understand Hui students experiences in central China and discusses the cultural differences between Han and Hui from a philosophical level The book uses postcolonial theory to critique the assimilative nature of school education the construction of Hui students identity from Han ideology and the cultural hegemony of the mainstream Han group It also discusses curriculum reconceptualization both in China and globally and the possibility of multicultural education in China

The Art of Ethnography, 2006 The Art of Ethnography is a fully illustrated translation of a Miao album a Chinese genre originating in the eighteenth century that used prose poetry and detailed illustrations to represent minority ethnic groups living in frontier regions under imperial Chinese control These bound collections of hand painted illustrations and handwritten text reveal how imperial China viewed culturally other frontier populations They also contain valuable information for anthropologists geographers and historians and are coveted by art collectors for their beautiful imagery Miao in this context refers not just to groups that called themselves Miao Hmong or were classified as such by the majority Han culture but generally to the many minority peoples in China s southwest This lovely volume reproduces each of the eighty two illustrations from the original album and the corresponding Chinese calligraphic text along with an annotated English translation Each entry depicts a different ethnic group residing in Guizhou The album is anonymous and dates from sometime after 1797 Laura Hostetler s Introduction discusses the genesis and evolution of the Miao album genre and the sociopolitical context in which the albums were first made the ethnographic content of the texts the composition of the illustrations and the albums authorship and production She situates the albums within the context of early modern imperial expansion internationally by introducing comparative examples of Japanese and Ottoman ethnography Color illustrations from other Miao albums and comparable works from other cultures give the reader a sense of the chromatic richness of Miao album illustrations and of their place in world ethnography

Towards a New Development Paradigm in Twenty-First Century China Eric Florence, Pierre Defraigne, 2012-10-02 This book argues that the current state of China requires an important paradigm shift in the way the party state manages the country's development and goes on to assess the fitness of the party state for implementing such a paradigm shift and the likelihood of the party state bringing this about. It brings together an examination of the very latest situation in a range of key areas where current developments have the potential to undermine substantially the status quo areas such as the recent economic crisis and the resulting economic slowdown increasing labour unrest mounting calls for social justice worsening urban rural disparity the urgent need to implement social welfare programmes the rise of civil society and the impact of new media. Overall the book provides a thorough appraisal of the difficulties which China currently faces.

Doing Business in Rural China Thomas Heberer, 2012-09-01

Longlisted for the 2009 ICAS Book Award Mountainous Liangshan Prefecture on the southern border of Sichuan Province is one of China's most remote regions. Although Liangshan's majority ethnic group the Nuosu now classified by the Chinese government as part of the Yi ethnic group practiced a subsistence economy and were by Chinese standards extremely poor. Their traditional society was stratified into endogamous castes the most powerful of which owned slaves. With the incorporation of Liangshan into China's new socialist society in the mid twentieth century the Nuosu were required to abolish slavery and what the Chinese government considered to be superstitious religious practices. When Han Chinese moved into the area competing with Nuosu for limited resources and introducing new cultural and economic challenges some Nuosu took advantage of China's new economic policies in the 1980s to begin private businesses. In Doing Business in Rural China Thomas Heberer tells the stories of individual entrepreneurs and presents a wealth of economic data gleaned from extensive fieldwork in Liangshan. He documents and analyzes the phenomenal growth during the last two decades of Nuosu run businesses comparing these with Han run businesses and asking how ethnicity affects the new market oriented economic structure and how economics in turn affects Nuosu culture and society. He finds that Nuosu entrepreneurs have effected significant change in local economic structures and social institutions and have financed major social and economic development projects. This economic development has prompted Nuosu entrepreneurs to establish business political and social relationships beyond the traditional social confines of the clan while also fostering awareness and celebration of ethnicity.

Trans-Himalayan Borderlands Dan Smyer Yu, 2025-10-01 The societies in the Himalayan borderlands have undergone wide ranging transformations as the territorial reconfiguration of modern nation states since the mid twentieth century and the presently increasing trans Himalayan movements of people goods and capital reshape the livelihoods of communities pulling them into global trends of modernisation and regional discourses of national belonging. This book explores the changes to native senses of place the conception of border simultaneously as limitations and opportunities and what the authors call affective boundaries livelihood reconstruction and trans Himalayan modernities. It addresses changing social political and environmental conditions that acknowledge growing external connectivity even as it emphasises the importance of place

Stories from an Ancient Land Magnus Fiskesjö, 2021-08-13 The Wa people have a rich civilization of their own and a deep history in the mountains of Southeast Asia Their mythology suggests their land is the first place inhabited by humans which they care for on behalf of the world This book introduces aspects of Wa culture including their approach to the world s troubles and the lessons others might learn from it It also presents a new interpretation of Wa headhunting questioning explanations that see it as a primitive custom and instead placing it within the fraught history of the last few centuries

Continuity and Change in Cultural Adaptation to Mountain Environments Ludomir R Lozny, 2013-03-12 Up until now mountain ecosystems have not been closely studied by social scientists as they do not offer a readily defined set of problems for human exploitation as do for instance tropical forests or arctic habitats But the archaeological evidence had shown that humans have been living in this type of habitat for thousands of years From this evidence we can also see that mountainous regions are often frontier zones of competing polities and form refuge areas for dissident communities as they often are inherently difficult to control by centralized authorities As a consequence they fuel or contribute disproportionately to political violence But we are now witnessing changes and increasing vulnerability of mountain ecosystems caused by human activities Human adaptability to mountain ecosystems This volume presents an international and interdisciplinary account of the exploitation of and human adaptation to mountainous regions over time The contributions discuss human cultural responses to key physical and cultural stressors associated with mountain ecosystems such as aridity quality of soils steep slopes low productivity as well as transient phenomena such as changing weather patterns deforestation and erosion and the possible effects of climate change This volume will be of interest to anthropologists ecologists and geologists as mountainous landscapes change fast and cultures disappear and they need to be recorded and mountain regions are of interest for studies on environmental change and cultural responses of mountain populations provide clues for us all Critical to understanding mountain adaptations is our comprehension of human decision making and how people view short and long term outcomes
