

- If trauma is dealt with effectively, the pain is consciously recognized, transformed, and transcended into healing. Although injury has occurred, the wounds will have been sufficiently understood and processed and will not interfere with providing care. This processing ultimately leads to healing, despite the remaining scar. This 'pathway to healing' leads the nurse to become a 'wounded healer' and allows for the nurse to draw on his/her woundedness to provide the service of healing.
