Resources in Education, 1998 The Cambridge Handbook of the Ethics of Ageing C. S. Wareham, 2022-08-04 We're all getting older from the moment we're born Ageing is a fundamental and ubiquitous aspect of life Yet in ethics not much work is done on the questions surrounding ageing how do diachronic features of ageing and the lifespan contribute to the overall value of life How do time change and mortality impact on questions of morality and the good life And how ought societies to respond to issues of social justice and the good balancing the interests of generations and age cohorts In this Cambridge Handbook the first book length attempt to stake this terrain leading moral philosophers from a range of sub fields and regions set out their approaches to the conceptual and ethical understanding of ageing The volume makes an important contribution to significant debates about the implications of ageing for individual well being social policy and social justice

Information Highways for a Smaller World and Better Living Seon Jong Chung, 1996 This work discusses the issues among people creating computer communication technology the people using computer communication the people impacted by it and the regulators responsible for balancing the interest of these multiple groups It's Getting Better All the Time Stephen Moore, Julian Simon, 2001-01-25 And now a dose of good news In a new book that will put the gloom and doom industry out of business the Cato Institute says more human progress has been achieved in the last 100 years than in all of the previous centuries combined No matter what the variable life expectancy wealth leisure time education safety gender and racial equality freedom the world is a vastly better place today than it was a century ago say co authors Stephen Moore and the late Julian Simon in It's Getting Better all the Time 100 Greatest Trends of the Last 100 Years Of course if things are so great why do we hear so much bad news False scares and junk science are partly to blame but the media also play a role in shaping people s perceptions In 1998 the authors point out there was not a single commercial airline crash despite the hundreds of thousands of commercial flights and billions of air passenger miles traveled While there was no major news coverage of this amazing record the media devoted weeks of coverage to the 1999 crash of an Egyptian airliner This focus on the bad lets us forget how much is good about life in modern America

Innovation and Trends in the Global Food Systems, Dietary Patterns and Healthy Sustainable Lifestyle in the Digital Age, 2nd edition Maha Hoteit, Reema Fayeze Tayyem, Radwan Qasrawi, Haleema Al Sabbah, 2023-07-31 All aspects of feeding and nourishing people growing harvesting packaging processing transporting marketing and consuming food are part of the food system Even before the COVID 19 pandemic food systems faced many challenges such as hunger increases which affected up to 811 million people as of 2020 while healthy diets were unaffordable for at least 3 billion people More than 80% of the population affected by hunger and 95% of people unable to afford a healthy diet were found in Asia and Africa Transformation of the global food system is clearly needed if we wish to embed equity sustainability and health as priorities in food provision and consumption Some of these transformations will be facilitated through new technologies while others will require public policy shifts changes in the private agro food industry actions by civil society and behavioral changes by individuals In this dynamic context technology actors and the consumers they serve sit at an important nexus within the food system and have the potential to make decisions that cut across the challenges and opportunities to improve sustainable food system outcomes Although food security has improved in developed countries many countries particularly low to middle income countries LMIC suffer from significant food insecurity challenges In addition food production accessibility and availability have been further impacted due to the COVID 19 outbreak causing growing global concerns regarding food security especially within the most vulnerable communities Moreover the transformation of food systems for addressing healthy nutrition food insecurity and public health issues is a global concern Food security and nutrition systems are directly related to human well being and global stability particularly in a time when diets transition toward increased reliance upon processed foods increased fast food intake high consumption of edible oils and sugar sweetened beverages lack of physical activities and increased lifestyles worldwide These changes in lifestyle continue to contribute to the growing pandemic of non communicable diseases such as obesity diabetes hypertension and cardiovascular diseases are clearly noticed across the globe The study of nutrition systems food security and the roles of technological advances especially in LMIC is considered the major factor in understanding food transition and population health Physical inactivity threatens LMIC public health as it is a prime behavioral risk factor associated with major non communicable diseases such as coronary heart disease type 2 diabetes and breast and colon cancer Its long term impacts increasingly burden national economies Decreasing its prevalence is paramount toward decreasing premature mortality and restoring healthy populations In its most recent iteration of a global action plan for the prevention of non communicable diseases the World Health Organization established voluntary global targets to reduce physical inactivity by 10% Currently limited published systematic analysis of physical inactivity prevalence among Muslim majority countries exists Existing literature is concentrated on Arab countries which represent less than half of all Muslim nations To date however pan Islamic physical inactivity data have not been reported Doing so can potentially galvanize religion specific agencies e g Islamic Relief Worldwide Organization of Islamic Cooperation to support efforts aimed at decreasing physical inactivity
