Paul Faber George MacDonald, 2015-07-12 Excerpt from Paul Faber Surgeon The rector sat on the box of his carriage driving his horses toward his church the grand old abbey church of Glaston His wife was inside and an old woman he had stopped on the road to take her up sat with her basket on the foot board behind His coachman sat beside him he never took the reins when his master was there Mr Bevis drove like a gentleman in an easy informal yet thoroughly business like way His horses were black large well bred and well fed but neither young nor showy and the harness was just the least bit shabby Indeed the entire turnout including his own hat and the coachman's offered the beholder that aspect of indifference to show which by the suggestion of a nodding acquaintance with poverty gave it the right clerical air of being not of this world Mrs Bevis had her basket on the seat before her containing beneath an upper stratum of flowers some of the first rhubarb of the season and a pound or two of fresh butter for a poor relation in the town The rector was a man about sixty with keen gray eyes a good humored mouth a nose whose enlargement had not of late gone in the direction of its original design and a face more than inclining to the rubicund suggestive of good living as well as open air Altogether he had the look of a man who knew what he was about and was on tolerable terms with himself and on still better with his neighbor The heart under his ribs was larger even than indicated by the benevolence of his countenance and the humor hovering over his mouth Upon the countenance of his wife rested a placidity sinking almost into fatuity About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
