Cities to be Tamed? Spatial Investigations across the Urban South Beatrice De Carli, Francesco Chiodelli, Maddalena Falletti, 2014-07-08 Across the global South the rapid urbanisation and uneven development that have occurred over the past few decades have brought to the surface a tight connection between social conflicts and urban space Indeed the physical conformation of urban space is one of the primary factors that trigger social tensions with repercussions at the metropolitan regional and national scales Such tensions are related to the conditions of social and spatial inequality which characterise many urban areas across the South they can also be connected to contingent political and institutional orders which find in the materiality of space both the means and the cause of conflicts among different groups amidst diverging territorial demands and the overlapping of competing struggles for power. At the same time new possibilities arise in the concreteness of space including innovative forms of local activism adapting strategies of self organisation and unconventional relations between the formal and the informal city. On acknowledging the multifaceted nature of the urban space there arises a question which constitutes the core problem addressed by the book: are cities to be tamed? This volume gathers a series of cross disciplinary contributions on these topics spanning from architecture and urban design to planning, social theory and geography. These contributions revolve around two core themes. The first concerns the agency of design in contexts of informality and centres on the missing unexpected pursued exchange between projects and realities. The second concerns the complex relationship between spatial planning, politics and conflicts in contexts characterised by marked ethnic, political and social tensions. Instituting Worlds Catharina Gabrielsson, Marko Jobst, 2024-12-30. Islands have a long history of appealing to the architectural imagination and have served as sites for architectural expressions of cultural specificity, cultural conquest and cultural hybridisation over millennia. From offshore financial centres to immigrant detention camps, tourist havens to military bases, the architectures of islands concretise the forces at play in our contemporary crisis-ridden societies. Collecting writings by a wide range of established scholars together with exciting new voices in architecture and affiliated disciplines, this book shows the pertinence islands hold for critical spatial thinking and practice today. Covering war and colonialism, detention and tourism, the topics raised in this book range from issues of urban development to close readings of buildings, whether ruined, designed, projected, preserved or absent. Combining case studies, critical historiography and pieces of experimental writing, the chapters disclose the variety of ways in which architecture can be used as a lens for analysing, disclosing and untangling island specificity. This volume offers a very timely, vibrant and methodologically varied approach to the subject of architecture and islands. Its global reach, innovative outlook and rich material will be of interest to scholars and students in architecture, landscape architecture, geography and urban design and planning, alongside arts and literary studies.
