Postal Reform Proposals:

Postal Reform Proposals American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, 1970 A summary and digest of the postal reform bill H R 17070 as amended and reported H Report 91 1104 by the House Committee on Post Office and Civil Service Postal Service Reform U S Government Accountability Office (G,U. S. Government Accountability Office (,2013-06 Pursuant to a congressional request GAO provided comments on proposed revisions to H R 22 the Postal Reform Act of 1997 GAO noted that 1 because the proposed revisions contain many complex provisions that GAO has not considered in its past or ongoing reviews GAO is generally not in a position to comment on the implications of the specific revisions being imposed 2 therefore GAO does not take a position on whether or not the proposed specific revisions to H R 22 should be adopted 3 the proposed revisions would mandate that the concept of Universal Service be defined 4 the 2 limit on the delivery price of items covered by the postal monopoly the limit proposed by the revisions would have little short range impact on the Postal Service s USPS ability to provide service 5 in GAO s view requiring USPS to report on the quality of its delivery service would be consistent with the underlying purpose of the Government Performance and Results Act 6 the proposed revisions would give USPS additional flexibility to set prices for its competitive products and services 7 however in congressional review of proposals to give USPS greater freedom to borrow and manage its finances three considerations seem appropriate a credit markets could perceive implied federal financial backing of USPS obligations even if they are explicitly not guaranteed which may raise concerns about potential funding advantages b there may be a potential risk to the taxpayer if USPS incurred losses and the government chose to repay these obligations and c effective oversight could reduce the potential risk to the taxpayer related to any losses from investments made by the Competitive Products Fund 8 the proposed revisions would give USPS additional flexibility to set prices for its competitive products and services and would subject USPS activities to many of the same U S laws as the private sector 9 in GAO s view as long as USPS remains a federal entity protected by the postal monopoly it is appropriate that USPS ability to compete with the private sector be balanced with oversight and legal safeguards to ensure fair competition between USPS and private competitors and 10 further the proposed revisions are designed to ensure fair competition for international mail Postal Reform United States. Committee on Post Office and Civil Service,1969 Pension Issues Cloud Postal Reform Debate ,2006 Reform of the business model of the U S Postal Service USPS was given new momentum by the July 2003 report of a blue ribbon presidential commission The commission concluded that USPS faces a long term decline in mail volume and revenues and unless its finances are shored up a taxpayer bailout or loss of universal service is threatened The 108th Congress held a dozen hearings on the commission

s report Broad postal reform proposals however have been somewhat overshadowed by controversy over two pension funding issues left unsettled by passage of P L 10818 the Postal Civil Service Retirement System Funding Reform Act of 2003 The first issue is what to do with the savings to USPS from the reduction in its payments to the Civil Service Retirement Fund allowed by the law Savings for the first three years were to be used to pay off the USPS debt to the Treasury but for FY2006 and later years the law provided that they be held in escrow pending further congressional action Continuation of the escrow requirement greatly concerns mailers organizations because anticipated new rates will extract 18 3 billion from mail users over the next five years that cannot be used to deliver the mail or support the system The Administration opposes removal of the escrow because it would add at least 3 billion annually to the budget deficit The second issue concerns the provision in the 2003 act transferring from the Treasury to USPS responsibility for paying the retirement benefits earned by postal employees when they were members of the armed forces a 27 billion obligation USPS argues that the Treasury pays for military service credits held by employees of every other agency and there is no connection between the USPS mission and that of the military USPS points out that 90% of the obligation was incurred before USPS was established as an independent entity in 1971 The Administration however believes that USPS should pay the full cost of its employees pensions including those earned in military service because the credits have pension value only by virtue of USPS having hired veterans in the first place The Federal Employees Retirement System FERS to which all postal employees newly hired since 1984 belong fully funds military retirement costs through agency contributions These two issues prevented postal reform legislation reported without dissent by the House Government Reform and Senate Governmental Affairs Committees from reaching the floor in the 108th Congress Both bills would have removed the escrow requirement and relieved USPS of its current obligation to pay the military pension costs of its employees They would also require USPS to begin funding its future retiree health care obligations The House bill was re introduced and passed in the 109th Congress as H R 22 The Senate bill S 662 was reported from committee by a vote of 15 1 on June 22 2005 Since USPS was granted a 5 4% rate increase this month to cover the costs of the escrow and a compromise has emerged to split the military retirement costs pension issues may no longer be a block to consideration by the full Senate This report will be updated to reflect significant legislative developments

Mail at the Millennium Edward L. Hudgins, 2001-09-25 This book analyzes why the Postal Service needs to be privatized if mail delivery is to be an efficient component of rather than a corroded cog in the communications and information economy The first section examines the state of the USPS including its dangerous forays into cyberspace The second section considers the changing structure of the mail market including a look at labor problems fatal flaws with the organization of the USPS and the probable consequences of competition The third section explores how to unwind government monopolies and reviews postal reforms in other countries The fourth section offers actual reform and privatization proposals Essays by Postmaster General William Henderson Federal Express founder Frederick Smith and Pitney Bowes CEO Michael Critelli contribute to making this volume an indispensable guide for charting the future of mail in the new millennium
