Pots and Pans of Classical Athens American School of Classical Studies at Athens, Brian A. Sparkes, Lucy Talcott, 1958 By mingling images on well preserved Greek vases with the more fragmentary ceramics recovered during excavations at the Agora the authors show how different vessel forms were used in classical Athens By linking the shapes of pots with their social functions this book gives meaning to the ancient names such as skyphos olpe kantharos lekane and hydria that one encounters when visiting museums

The Art of Vase-Painting in Classical Athens Martin Robertson, 1992 In his new book Professor Martin Robertson author of A History of Greek Art CUP 1975 and A Shorter History of Greek Art CUP 1981 draws together the results of a lifetime's study of Greek vase painting tracing the history of figure drawing on Athenian pottery from the invention of the red figure technique in the later archaic period to the abandonment of figured vase decoration two hundred years later The book covers red figure and also work produced over the same period in the same workshops in black figure and other techniques especially that of drawing in outline on a white ground The book is intended as a companion volume to Sir John Beazley's The Development of Attic Black figure originally published in 1951 by California University Press and as an examination and defence of Beazley's methods and achievements This book is a major contribution to the history of Greek vase painting and anyone seriously interested in the subject whether scholar student curator collector or amateur will find it essential reading

A History of Cooks and Cooking Michael Symons, 2004 Never has there been so little need to cook Yet Michael Symons maintains that to be truly human we need to become better cooks practical and generous sharers of food Fueled by James Boswell's definition of humans as cooking animals for no beast can cook Symons sets out to explore the civilizing role of cooks in history His wanderings take us to the clay ovens of the prehistoric eastern Mediterranean and the bronze cauldrons of ancient China to fabulous banquets in the temples and courts of Mesopotamia Egypt and Persia to medieval English cookshops and southeast Asian street markets to palace kitchens diners and modern fast food eateries Symons samples conceptions and perceptions of cooks and cooking from Plato and Descartes to Marx and Virginia Woolf asking why cooks despite their vital and central role in sustaining life have remained in the shadows unheralded unregarded and underappreciated People think of meals as occasions where you share food he notes they rarely think of cooks as sharers of food Considering such notions as the physical and political consequences of sauce connections between food and love and cooking as a regulator of clock and calendar Symons provides a spirited and diverting defense of a cook centered view of the world
