Borders and Border Politics in a Globalizing World Paul Ganster, David E. Lorey, 2004-10-17 Borders represent an intriguing paradox as globalization continues to leap barriers at a vigorous pace merging economies and cultures through world trade economic integration the mass media the Internet and increasingly mobile populations At the same time the political boundaries separating peoples remain pervasive and problematic Borders and Border Politics in a Globalizing World offers a carefully selected group of readings to enhance student understanding of the complexities of border regions The reader brings together key writings on the histories of borders their social development their politics and the daily life that characterizes them The authors place their analyses of these issues in an international context stressing how borders influence and how they are influenced by global processes The selections provide a window on our current understanding of human interactions at and along national and interethnic boundaries interactions that will characterize borders and border politics for decades to come Drawing on a worldwide set of case studies this text divides border issues into seven thematic categories borders as barriers borders migrants and refugees borders and partitioned groups borders perceptions and culture borders and the environment borders goods and services and maritime and space borders An excellent text for courses on boundaries ethnicity and international relations this collection of cutting edge information and analysis on borders and border politics in the context of ongoing globalization will shed light both upon international and subnational boundaries and upon the unfolding processes of globalization Green Wars Megan Ybarra, 2018 Green Wars challenges international conservation efforts revealing through in depth case studies how saving the Maya Forest facilitates racialized dispossession Megan Ybarra brings Guatemala's 36 year civil war into the perspective of a longer history of 200 years of settler colonialism to show how conservation works to make Q'eqchi's into immigrants on their own territory Even as the post war state calls on them to claim rights as individual citizens Q'eqchi's seek survival as a people Her analysis reveals that Q'eqchi's both appeal to the nation state and engage in relationships of mutual recognition with other Indigenous peoples and the land itself in their calls for a material decolonization Provided by publisher Campesino a Campesino Eric Holt-Giménez, 2006 Campesino a Campesino tells the inspiring story of a true grassroots movement poor peasant farmers teaching one another how to protect their environment while still earning a living The first book in English about the farmer led sustainable agriculture movement in Latin America Campesino a Campesino includes lots of first person stories and commentary from the farmer teachers mixing personal accounts with detailed analysis of the political socioeconomic and ecological factors that galvanized the movement Campesino farmer leading a farmer to farmer training session in Mexico by Eric Holt Gimenez Many years ago author Eric Holt Gimenez was a volunteer trying to teach sustainable agriculture techniques in the dusty highlands of central Mexico with little success Near the end of his tenure he invited a group of visiting Guatemalan farmers to teach a course in his village What he saw was like nothing he had known The Guatemalans used parables stories and humor to present agricultural improvement to their Mexican compadres as a logical outcome of clear thinking and compassion love of farming of family of nature and of community Rather than try to convince the Mexicans of their innovations they insisted they experiment new things on a small scale first to see how well they worked And they saw themselves as students respecting the Mexicans deep lifelong knowledge of their own particular land and climate All they asked in return was that the Mexicans turn around and share their new knowledge with others which they did CAC campo3_photo by Food First This exchange was typical of a grassroots movement called Campesino a Campesino or Farmer to Farmer which has grown up in southern Mexico and war torn Central America over the last three decades In the book Campesino a Campesino Holt Gimenez writes the first history of the movement describing the social political economic and environmental circumstances that shape it The voices and stories of dozens of farmers in the movement are captured bringing to vivid life this hopeful story of peasant farmers helping one another to farm sustainably protecting their land their environment and their families future
