Real Time Programming 1995:

UML for Real Luciano Lavagno, Grant Martin, Bran V. Selic, 2007-05-08 The complexity of most real time and embedded systems often exceeds that of other types of systems since in addition to the usual spectrum of problems inherent in software they need to deal with the complexities of the physical world. That world as the proverbial Mr Murphy tells us is an unpredictable and often unfriendly place. Consequently there is a very strong motivation to investigate and apply advanced design methods and technologies that could simplify and improve the reliability of real time software design and implementation. As a result from the first versions of UML issued in the mid 1990's designers of embedded and real time systems have taken to UML with vigour and enthusiasm. However the dream of a complete model driven design flow from specification through automated optimised code generation has been difficult to realise without some key improvements in UML semantics and syntax specifically targeted to the real time systems problem. With the enhancements in UML that have been proposed and are near standardisation with UML 2.0 many of these improvements have been made. In the Spring of 2003 adoption of a formalised UML 2.0 specification by the members of the Object Management Group OMG seems very close. It is therefore very appropriate to review the status of UML as a set of notations for embedded real time systems both the state of the art and best practices achieved up to this time with UML of previous generations and where the changes embodied in the Computer Aided And Integrated Manufacturing Systems (A 5-volume Set) - Volume 5: Manufacturing Processes Cornelius T Leondes, 2003-09-29. This is an invaluable five volume reference on the very broad and highly significant subject of computer aided and integrated manufacturing systems. It is a set of distinctly titled and well harmonized volumes by leading experts on the international scene. The techniques and technologies used in computer aided and integrated manufacturing systems have produced and will no doubt continue to produce major annual improvements in productivity which is defined as the goods and services produced from each hour of work. This publication deals particularly with more effective utilization of labor and capital especially information technology systems. Together the five volumes treat comprehensively the major techniques and technologies that are involved.
