parents remained on Love's plantation as sharecroppers while Nat left and headed west. He found work as a cowboy first on the Duval Ranch in the Texas panhandle then on the Gallinger Ranch in southern Arizona. Love's narrative details his many adventures and exploits such as being captured and shot by Pima Indians who eventually spared his life because they sympathized with his plight as a black man. In Deadwood Dakota Territory he entered a rodeo winning 200 and the nickname Deadwood Dick, a reference to a literary character from a dime novel of the day. Published in 1907, The Life and Adventures of Nat Love would help to make Love a black folk hero of the Old West.

Nat Love Barbara Lee Bloom, 2010 Born in a log cabin in Tennessee in June 1854, Nat Love was the slave of Robert Love. He was about six when the Civil War began, and after the slaves were freed following the war, Love was ready to start living a new life out West where he could find work as a cowhand. It wasn't long before he started showing his talents as a cowboy, roping and herding cattle, and learning to shoot a Colt 45. He used his skill in roping contests at rodeos where he earned the nickname Deadwood Dick and was proclaimed Champion Roper of the Western Cattle Country. Eventually, Love walked away from the life of a cowboy and worked as a Pullman porter, becoming one of the most popular. Though some may be more fiction than fact, the vivid accounts in his autobiography tell tales of adventures with such characters as Billy the Kid, Buffalo Bill, Kit Carson, and the James Brothers. In this new offering, readers can discover the truth and tall tales Nat Love spun in his self-penned work.
