Palaeobiology II Derek E. G. Briggs,Peter R. Crowther,2008-04-15 Palaeobiology A Synthesis was widely acclaimed both for its content and production quality Ten years on Derek Briggs and Peter Crowther have once again brought together over 150 leading authorities from around the world to produce Palaeobiology II Using the same successful formula the content is arranged as a series of concise articles taking a thematic approach to the subject rather than treating the various fossil groups systematically This entirely new book with its diversity of new topics and over 100 new contributors reflects the exciting developments in the field including accounts of spectacular newly discovered fossils and embraces data from other disciplines such as astrobiology geochemistry and genetics Palaeobiology II will be an invaluable resource not only for palaeontologists but also for students and researchers in other branches of the earth and life sciences Written by an international team of recognised authorities in the field Content is concise but informative Demonstrates how palaeobiological studies are at the heart of a range of scientific themes Paleoimagery Allen A. Debus,Diane E. Debus,2002 Other than seeing them in popular movies such as Jurassic Park how do people today know what dinosaurs and other prehistoric animals looked like Only their fossils remain but thanks to paleoartists most people have a good idea of what these creatures looked like The world of paleoart and its artists are the subject of this richly illustrated work It explores themes in the depiction of dinosaurs and other prehistoric animals paleoart s history and speculative nature and its effect on scientists impressions of prehistoric animals Also explored are such topics as the careers of several paleoartists including Georges Cuvier Gideon Mantell John Martin Neave Parker Benjamin Waterhouse Hawkins and Charles R Knight the depiction of scientific ideas about dinosaurs and prehistoric animals on canvas and in sculpture the purpose and process of restoring them in museums the significance of certain restorations and images and the development of paleoart in America

Vertebrate Life F. Harvey Pough,John B. Heiser,William Norman McFarland,1996 Vertebrate Life is the only book that integrates the ecology behavior morphology and physiology of vertebrates in a phylogenetic context It focuses on how animals work and the consequences in ecological and evolutionary time of working one way versus another Integrating Conservation Biology and Paleobiology to Manage Biodiversity and Ecosystems in a Changing World G. Lynn Wingard,Chris Schneider,Gregory P. Dietl ,Damien Fordham, Policy makers and resource managers must make decisions that affect the resilience and sustainability of natural resources including biodiversity and ecosystem services However these decisions are often based on evidence or theory derived from highly altered systems and over short time periods of low magnitude environmental and climatic change Because natural systems change and evolve across multiple timescales from instantaneous to millennial long term understanding of how past life has responded to perturbations can inform resource managers By using these natural laboratories of the past conservation paleobiology and paleoecology provide the framework necessary to anticipate and plan for future changes The goal of this Research Topic is to heighten awareness among conservation and restoration practitioners to the value and applications of long term perspectives provided by conservation paleobiology and paleoecology Most conservation studies focus on systems already impacted by anthropogenic change these studies would benefit from paleontological data through expanded temporal scales identification of baselines and an understanding of how organisms have responded to past changes However resource management decisions rarely include input from paleontologists and paleoecological research is rarely incorporated into conservation decision making We seek to bridge this research implementation gap by highlighting the application of paleoecological data to issues such as biodiversity dynamics extinction risks and resilience to perturbations among other topics We hope to foster new cross disciplinary synergies by encouraging conservation scientists and managers to collaborate with paleontologists to improve conservation decision making and by increasing awareness among paleontologists to the needs of the resource management community

This Research Topic will provide a forum for both the paleontological and resource management communities to exchange ideas that will enhance restoration and conservation decision making We invite papers on conceptual advances reviews of specific topics to guide efforts in research or practice case studies of successful applications articles describing datasets with applied value and perspective papers summarizing a body of paleontological research with relevance to the resource management community Topics can include but are not limited to Responses of species communities and ecosystems to perturbations Strategies to achieve the direct integration of paleobiology and paleoecology into on ground resource management Identifying baselines and reference conditions Increasing the robustness of forecasting models through the incorporation of paleontological data Identifying key species interactions and other phenomena as indicators of impending change New methodologies analytical tools and or proxies in the application of paleontological data to conservation and restoration practice Lynn Wingard Damien Fordham and Greg Dietl have no conflicts of interest Chris Schneider has a potential conflict of interest where manuscripts pertain to stakeholders in the petroleum industry as she is an independent contractor in the Alberta Oil Sands mining area
