Pathways To Participation:

Pathways to Participation Andrea Cornwall, Garrett Pratt, 2003 This book brings together some of the greatest names in development practice including Robert Chambers and Jules Pretty embracing a range of entry points and experiences to articulate the forms of practice that have come to be called PRA Participatory Rural Appraisal the most popularly recognized and widely used approach to participation

Legal Design for Social-Ecological Resilience Brita Bohman, 2021-03-18 Theories of social ecological resilience have developed over the past decades and rapidly become an important framework for governance of complex non linear environmental problems This book explores the resilience theories and their compatibility with law it identifies corresponding legal features The legal features identified including legal measures mechanisms principles and approaches form a legal design for social ecological resilience A legal design that can be applied to different governance situations It can be a tool both for designing new laws as well as for assessing the effectiveness of current laws and legal systems In many ways environmental law has adjusted and developed new approaches to meet complex environmental problems but law is still challenged by the complexity that characterize environmental problems and the environmental change connected with the Anthropocene This book provides a comprehensive review of the most fundamental components of the governance framework for social ecological resilience and the role of law

Children and International Human Rights Law Aisling Parkes, 2013-08-15 The United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child 1989 is one of the most highly ratified human rights treaties in the world with 192 states currently signed up to it Article Twelve is fundamental to the Convention and states that all children capable of forming views have the right to express those views and recognises that all children have the right to be heard in any judicial and administrative proceedings affecting them This book explores the historical and theoretical background to Article Twelve and examines the various models of participation which have been created to facilitate a better understanding of this provision Aisling Parkes analyzes the extent to which Article Twelve has been implemented under international law and in domestic law as well as setting out recommendations for the most effective ways of implementing Article Twelve in all areas of children s lives

Children as Change Makers Sam Frankel, Daniella Bendo, 2024-09-16 Inspired by narratives on children s rights and social action Learning Allowed offers a robust framework to create experiential learning opportunities that will equip students in higher and further education to actively get involved in community change projects that partner with children and young people

From Initial Education to Working Life Making Transitions Work OECD, 2000-05-31 Taking a broader view of transition outcomes than many previous comparative studies this study reveals the complex and many faceted national institutional arrangements that can result in successful transitions to working life

Sport Coaching with Diverse Populations James Wallis, John Lambert, 2020-10-25 Sports coaches apply their skills in a wider variety of contexts and with a more diverse range of athletes and participants than ever before This book introduces the professional competencies and knowledge needed to build successful working relationships across the different communities and groups with which coaches operate. The book offers important insight for coaches who work with specific populations including different age groups, black, Asian, and minority ethnic (BAME) people, those of different gender or sexual orientation, individuals with disabilities or illness, the socio-economically disadvantaged, and refugees. Drawing on real world case studies such as coaching girls in combat sports and coaching cardiac rehab patients, and adopting a critical approach to values, philosophy, and pedagogic process, this book argues that understanding the recipient of coaching and their particular needs is as important as content knowledge. With contributions from leading coaching researchers and practitioners, this is important reading for developing coaches, students on sports courses, and other individuals involved in the sport pedagogy domain who seek to gain a better understanding of the demands of meeting the specific needs of people in the coaching process.

University Pathway Programs: Local Responses within a Growing Global Trend Cintia Inés Agosti, Eva Bernat, 2018-06-14. This volume is the first to compile the insights of experienced and informed education researchers and practitioners involved in the delivery of university pathway programs. These programs have emerged as effective responses to global, national, and local students' needs when transitioning to Higher Education. The book opens with an overview of the main drivers for the development of university pathway programs and a description of the main characteristics of such programs, as well as of the different types of programs available. It examines topics such as the way in which policy and governance issues at the institutional, state, and federal level affect university pathway programs, financial models, compliance, and quality assurance mechanisms, as well as program provision. It also looks at how to address issues related to non-traditional background students, such as those from lower socioeconomic background, students for whom English is an additional language (EAL), indigenous students, mature age students, and humanitarian entrants. The volume showcases thirteen university pathway programs offered in Australia, Canada, New Zealand, South Africa, Qatar, and the United Kingdom. These examples provide valuable insights that will help guide future practice in the field, as the programs described effectively foster and support the development of students' academic literacies, study skills, and awareness of the socio-cultural norms that are necessary to participate successfully in higher education settings. In reporting the strategies to overcome challenges in the areas of curriculum development and implementation of equity, inclusion, and participation, of cross-sector collaboration, and of student welfare, the volume promotes reflection on these issues and therefore better equips those education practitioners embarking on the university pathway program journey.

Success in Early Intervention Arthur J. Reynolds, 2000-01-01. This book is a valuable source of information on the long-term effects of early intervention programs on the education of children living in economically disadvantaged areas and in other contexts. Early intervention programs such as Head Start enjoy popular and legislative support, but until now, policymakers and practitioners have lacked hard data on the long-term consequences of such locally and federally mandated efforts. Success in Early Intervention focuses on the Child Parent Center (CPC) program in Chicago, the second oldest after Head Start federally funded early childhood intervention program Begun in 1967 the program currently operates out of twenty four centers which are located in proximity to the elementary schools they serve The CPC program s unique features include mandatory parental involvement and a single sustained educational system that spans preschool through the third grade Central to this study is a 1986 cohort of nearly twelve hundred CPC children and a comparison group of low income children whose subsequent activities challenges and achievements are followed through the age of fifteen The lives of these children amply demonstrate the positive long term educational and social consequences of the CPC program
