Patterns In Action:

Spatial Temporal Patterns for Action-Oriented Perception in Roving Robots Paolo Arena, Luca Patanè, 2008-12-19 The basic principles guiding sensing perception and action in bio systems seem to rely on highly organised spatial temporal dynamics In fact all biological senses visual hearing tactile etc process signals coming from different parts distributed in space and also show a complex time evolution As an example mammalian retina performs a parallel representation of the visual world embodied into layers each of which represents a particular detail of the scene These results clearly state that visual perception starts at the level of the retina and is not related uniquely to the higher brain centres Although vision remains the most useful sense guiding usual actions the other senses rest of all hearing but also touch become essential particularly in cluttered conditions where visual percepts are somehow obscured by environment conditions Efficient use of hearing can be learnt from acoustic perception in animals insects like crickets that use this ancient sense more than all the others to perform a vital function like mating

Action Patterns in Business Process Models Sergey Smirnov, Weidlich, Matthias, Mendling, Jan, Weske, Mathias, 2009 Business process management experiences a large uptake by the industry and process models play an important role in the analysis and improvement of processes While an increasing number of staff becomes involved in actual modeling practice it is crucial to assure model quality and homogeneity along with providing suitable aids for creating models In this paper we consider the problem of offering recommendations to the user during the act of modeling Our key contribution is a concept for defining and identifying so called action patterns chunks of actions often appearing together in business processes In particular we specify action patterns and demonstrate how they can be identified from existing process model repositories using association rule mining techniques Action patterns can then be used to suggest additional actions for a process model Our approach is challenged by applying it to the collection of process models from the SAP Reference Model

Patterns in Action Robert Schwegler,1988

Actology Malcolm Torry,2020-07-08 Two streams run through the Western philosophical stream one characterized by Being beings the unchanging the static and the unitary and the other by Action actions the changing the dynamic and the diverse The former might be represented by Parmenides Plato and much of what followed the latter by Heraclitus and by rather less of what followed The book explores the Action stream as it wound its way through history through Heraclitus Plato Aristotle Hegel Maurice Blondel Henri Bergson Pierre Teilhard de Chardin process philosophy and theology Geoffrey Studdert Kennedy Ludwig Wittgenstein and John Boys Smith The journey enables us to create the beginnings of an actology a way of seeing ourselves the universe and God in terms of actions in patterns rather than as beings that change Such an actology offers a complete alternative narrative far more in tune with the diverse and rapidly changing world in which we live than the ontology that has shaped philosophy theology and much else for the past two thousand years
