Little Resilience Eli MacLaren, 2020-10-22 The Ryerson Poetry Chap Books were a landmark achievement in Canadian poetry Edited by Lorne Pierce the series lasted for thirty seven years 1925 62 and comprised two hundred titles by writers from Newfoundland to British Columbia over half of whom were women By examining this editorial feat Little Resilience offers a new history of Canadian poetry in the twentieth century Eli MacLaren analyzes the formation of the series in the wake of the First World War at a time when small presses had proliferated across the United States Pierce s emulation of them produced a series that contributed to the historic shift in the meaning of the term chapbook from an antique of folk culture to a brief collection of original poetry By retreating to the smallest of forms Pierce managed to work against the dominant industry pattern of the day agency publishing or the distribution of foreign editions Original case studies of canonical and forgotten writers push through the period s defining polarity modernism versus romanticism to create complex portraits of the author during the Depression the Second World War and the 1950s The stories of five Ryerson poets Nathaniel A Benson Anne Marriott M Eugenie Perry Dorothy Livesay and Al Purdy reveal poetry in Canada to have been a widespread vocation and a poor one as fragile as it was irrepressible The Ryerson Poetry Chap Books were an unprecedented initiative to publish Canadian poetry Little Resilience evaluates the opportunities that the series opened for Canadian poets and the sacrifices that it demanded of them

An Echo in the Mountains Nicholas Bradley, 2020-09-23 From the 1960s until his death in 2000 Al Purdy was one of the most prominent writers in Canada famous for his frank language and his boisterous personality He travelled the country and wrote about its people and places from Newfoundland to Vancouver Island A central figure in the CanLit explosion of the sixties and seventies Purdy has been called the best the most and the last Canadian poet But Purdy s Canada no longer exists A changing country and shifting attitudes toward Canadian literature demand new perspectives on Purdy s impact and accomplishments An Echo in the Mountains reassesses Purdy s works the shape of his career and his literary legacy grappling with the question of how to read Purdy today a century after his birth and in a new era of Canadian literature Contributors to the volume examine Purdy s critical reception explore little known documents and textual problems and analyze his representations of Canadian history and Indigenous peoples and cultures They show that much remains to be discovered and understood about the poet and his immense body of work The first sustained examination of Al Purdy's works in over a decade An Echo in the Mountains showcases the critical challenges and rewards of rereading an iconic and influential Canadian writer

Sharing the Past J.A. Weingarten, 2019-07-15 Sharing the Past is an unprecedentedly detailed account of the intertwining discourses of Canadian history and creative literature When social history emerged as its own field of study in the 1960s it promised new stories that would bring readers away from the elite writing of academics and closer to the everyday experiences of people Yet the academy's continued emphasis on professional distance and objectivity made it difficult for historians to connect with the experiences of those about whom they wrote and those same emphases made it all but impossible for non-academic experts to be institutionally recognized as historians Drawing on interviews and new archival materials to construct a history of Canadian poetry written since 1960 Sharing the Past argues that the project of social history has achieved its fullest expression in lyric poetry a genre in which personal experiences anchor history Developing this genre since 1960 Canadian poets have provided an inclusive model for a truly social history that indiscriminately shares the right to speak authoritatively of the past
