Bold,1996 Blaise Pascal Marvin R. O'Connell,1997 Blaise Pascal 1623 1662 mathematician physicist inventor and religious thinker was a man at odds with his time The optimism of the Enlightenment and the belief among philosophers and scientists that the universe was both discoverable and rational made them feel invincible Reason alone declared the intellectuals could discover a God of natural religion that was to replace the God of traditional Christianity Pascal on the other hand was not so confident In his Pens es he wrote The eternal silence of these infinite spaces fills me with dread For Pascal the universe was full of a mystery that went far beyond the powers of reason Blaise Pascal Reasons of the Heart the latest addition to Eerdmans LIBRARY OF RELIGIOUS BIOGRAPHY series captures Pascal s life and times with a chronicle narrative based on the published sources and Pascal s own works Marvin O Connell takes readers on an eloquent journey into Pascal s world showing the passion that drove the man and the radical spirituality he sought in his own heart In the process O Connell also illumines the social political and religious intrigue of seventeenth century Paris especially the winner take all struggle between the Jesuits and the Jansenists with whom Pascal himself was allied Written in an enjoyable style accessible to all this meticulously researched biography will acquaint readers with the life and thought of Blaise Pascal a remarkable human being and luminous Christian thinker Before

Imagination John D. Lyons, 2005 A study of the practice of vivid self directed imagination in the optimistic spirit of the early modern French writers

The European Philosophers from Descartes to Nietzsche Monroe Beardsley, 2002-11-12 Between the earliest and the latest of the works included here we have two hundred and fifty years of vigorous and adventurous philosophizing Monroe Beardsley writes in his Introduction to this collection If the modern period can be only vaguely or arbitrarily bounded it can at least be studied and we can ask whether any dominant themes overall patterns of movement or notable achievements can be found within it This question is one that is best asked by the reader after he has read or read around in these works This Modern Library Paperback Classic also includes a newly updated Bibliography

Literary Silences in Pascal, Rousseau, and Beckett Elisabeth Marie Loevlie, 2003 To explore literary silence is to explore the relationships between literary texts and the silence of the ineffable It is to enquire what dynamics texts develop as they strive to say the unsayable and it is to think literature as a silence that speaks itself This study describes these literary and silent dynamics through readings of Pascal's Pensées Rousseau's Rêveries and Beckett's trilogy Molloy Malone meurt and L'Innommable It contributes to our understanding of three major writers and challenges our idea of what silence is The subject of silence and of the ineffable has a long philosophical and critical tradition A careful study of this tradition reveals the dominance of a limiting dualistic understanding of silence and its relationship to noise or language silence becomes the negative other the beyond about which there remains nothing to say The study of literary silence seeks rather to trace a language that becomes its own silence It compromises the attempt to think a silence that moves within and through texts that is inherent to the literary expression Central to this theoretical endeavour are thinkers like Derrida

Deleuze, Gadamer, and Vattimo among several others. The theoretical understanding of silence permits an effective methodology for reading literary silence. Notions of repetition, the aporia, and the implosion, which are developed in reference to Kierkegaard and Bataille, describe textual strategies of literary silence and structure the readings. Finally, the reading of literary silence has its point of reference in writers like Mallarmé, Blanchot, and Beckett. It is their texts that have taught us to become topological readers, to move in and out of texts, movements they have shown us how the literary expression is irreducible to linear, meaning-oriented language. As readers of such texts, we have been prepared to read the dynamics of the unsayable and finally to start discerning the silences of the literary.

Development Christopher Goodey, 2021-06-10 This book details the history of the idea of psychological development over the past two millennia. The developmental idea played a major part in the shift from religious ways of explaining human nature to secular, modern ones. In this shift, the elect chosen by God became the normal, and grace was replaced by cognitive ability as the essentially human quality. A theory of psychological development was derived from theories of bodily development, leading scholars to describe human beings as passing through necessary stages of development over the lifespan. By exploring the historical and religious roots of modern psychological concepts and theories, this book demonstrates that history is a method for standing outside psychology and thereby evaluating its fundamental premises. It will spark new interest in the history, sociology, and philosophy of the mind sciences, as well as in the rights of children and developmentally disabled people.

Beyond the Wager Douglas Groothuis, 2024-04-02 There was more to Blaise Pascal than his wager, an argument about the existence of God. In this accessible study, philosopher Douglas Groothuis introduces readers to Pascal's life as well as the breadth of his intellectual pursuits, overviewing the key points of his Pensées and exploring his views on culture, politics, and more.

Sublime Worlds Emma Gilby, 2017-07-05 Some of the language we come across in reading other people's works or listening to others speak moves us profoundly. It requires a response from us; it occupies and involves us. Writers, always readers and listeners as well, are fascinated by this phenomenon, which became the subject of the classical treatise On the Sublime, traditionally attributed to Longinus. Emma Gilby looks at this compelling and complex text in relation to the work of three major seventeenth-century authors: Pierre Corneille, Blaise Pascal, and Nicolas Boileau. She offers, in each case, intimate critical readings which spin out into broad interrogations about knowledge and experience in early modern French literature.

Blaise Pascal on Duplicity, Sin, and the Fall William Wood, William Dalton Wood, 2013-07-04 Blaise Pascal on Duplicity, Sin, and the Fall: The Secret Instinct is the first book on Pascal's theology to appear in English in more than 40 years. It is about Pascal's understanding of the cognitive consequences of the Fall. According to Pascal, human beings have an innate aversion to the truth that is also at the same time an aversion to God. We are born into a duplicitous world that shapes us into duplicitous agents, and so we find it easy to reject God continually and deceive ourselves about our own sinfulness. This book offers more than just a novel interpretation of Pascal's main text, the Pensées. It also shows that Pascal is a long neglected resource for constructive theology and that Pascalian theology is both possible and fruitful

Descartes and the Resilience of Rhetoric Thomas M. Carr, 2009-03-10 A careful analysis of the rhetorical thought of Ren Descartes and of a distinguished group of post Cartesians Covering a unique range of authors including Bernard Lamy and Nicolas Malebranche Carr attacks the idea which has become commonplace in contemporary criticism that the Cartesian system is incompatible with rhetoric Carr analyzes the writings of Balzac the Port Royalists Arnauld and Nicole Malebranche and Lamy exploring the evolution of Descartes thought into their different theories of rhetoric He constructs his arguments probing each author's writings on rhetoric persuasion and attention to demonstrate the basis for rhetorical thought present in Descartes theory of persuasion when it is combined with his psychophysiology of attention

Pascal and Disbelief David Wetsel, 1994 Seeks to answer a question that has puzzled readers since the Pensees a work conceived principally as an Apology for the Christian Religion first appeared in 1670 To whom is Pascal's call to Christian conversion really addressed

Sublimity and Skepticism in Montaigne and Milton David Louis Sedley, 2005 Boldly investigates the relationship between the sublime as an aesthetic category and the emergence of skepticism as a philosophical problem

The Power of the Cross Graham Tomlin, 2007-03-01 In a postmodern world the church cannot escape the question of power The contemporary critique of the church suggests that it reigned for so long in Western society not because it was more true than its rivals but because it was more powerful Is the Christian claim to truth merely a veiled bid for power Has not the church regularly abused its power during the years of Christendom Does Christian theology have the resources to answer these charges This book argues that it does in the quiet but recurrent theme of the theology of the cross It explores the origins and contours of this kind of theology in three of its major exponents St Paul Martin Luther and Blaise Pascal showing how each of them turned to a theology of the cross to combat the abuse of power within the church It concludes by considering how such theology might do the same in the postmodern context Of interest to anyone concerned with the role of the church in a postmodern world or in the theology of the cross itself this book explores vital themes for the church's life and thought both today and in the future

Fallen Nature, Fallen Selves Michael Moriarty, 2006-05-25 From the late sixteenth to the late seventeenth centuries French writing is especially concerned with analysing human nature The ancient ethical vision of man's nature and goal we achieve fulfilment by living our lives according to reason the highest and noblest element of our nature survives even to some extent in Descartes But it is put into question especially by the revival of St Augustine's thought which focuses on the contradictions and disorders of human desires and aspirations Analyses of behaviour display a powerful suspicion of appearances Human beings are increasingly seen as motivated by self love they are driven by the desire for their own advantage and take a narcissistic delight in their own image Moral and religious writers re-emphasize the traditional imperative of self knowledge but in such a way as to suggest the difficulties of knowing oneself Operating with the Cartesian distinction between mind and body they emphasize the imperceptible influence of bodily processes on our thought and attitudes They analyse human beings' ignorance due to self love of their own motives and qualities and the illusions under which they live their lives Their critique of human behaviour is no less searching than that of writers who have broken with traditional religious morality such as Hobbes and Spinoza A wide range of authors is studied some well known others much less so the abstract and general analyses of philosophers and theologians Descartes Jansenius Malebranche are juxtaposed with the less systematic and more concrete investigations of writers like Montaigne and La Rochefoucauld not to mention the theatre of Corneille Moli re and Racine
