Position And Issues Statements Of The Accounting Education Change Commission Volume13:

The Routledge Companion to Accounting Education Richard M.S. Wilson,2014-04-29 Many enquiries into the state of accounting education training undertaken in several countries over the past 40 years have warned that it must change if it is to be made more relevant to students to the accounting profession and to stakeholders in the wider community This book s over riding aim is to provide a comprehensive and authoritative source of reference which defines the domain of accounting education training and which provides a critical overview of the state of this domain including emerging and cutting edge issues as a foundation for facilitating improved accounting education training scholarship and research in order to enhance the educational base of accounting practice The Routledge Companion to Accounting Education highlights the key drivers of change whether in the field of practice on the one hand e g increased regulation globalisation risk and complexity or from developments in the academy on the other e g pressures to embed technology within the classroom or to meet accreditation criteria on the other Thirty chapters written by leading scholars from around the world are grouped into seven themed sections which focus on different facets of their respective themes including student curriculum pedagogic and assessment considerations

The Accounting Education Change Commission Gary L. Sundem,1999 The Routledge Companion to Accounting Communication Lisa Jack,Jane Davison,Russell Craig,2013-05-02 One of the prime purposes of accounting is to communicate and yet to date this fundamental aspect of the discipline has received relatively little attention The Routledge Companion to Accounting Communication represents the first collection of contributions to focus on the power of communication in accounting The chapters have a shared aim of addressing the misconception that accounting is a purely technical number based discipline by highlighting the use of narrative visual and technological methods to communicate accounting information The contents comprise a mixture of reflective overview stinging critique technological exposition clinical analysis and practical advice on topical areas of interest such as The miscommunication that preceded the global financial crisis The failure of sustainability reporting The development of XBRL How to cut clutter With an international coterie of contributors including a communication theorist a Big Four practitioner and accounting academics this volume provides an eclectic array of expert analysis and reflection The contributors reveal how accounting communications represent or misrepresent the financial affairs of entities thus presenting a state of the art assessment on each of the main facets of this important topic As such this book will be of interest to a wide range of readers including postgraduate students in management and accounting established researchers in the fields of both accounting and communications and accounting practitioners

Personal Transferable Skills in Accounting Education Kim Watty, Beverley Jackling, Richard M.S. Wilson, 2014-07-16 The development of generic skills often referred to as soft skills in accounting education has been a focus of discussion and debate for several decades. During this time, employers and professional bodies have urged accounting educators to consider and develop curricula which provide for the development and assessment of these skills. In addition, there has been criticism of the quality of accounting graduates and their ability to operate effectively in a global economy. Embedding generic skills in the accounting curriculum has been acknowledged as an appropriate means of addressing the need to provide knowledge professionals to meet the needs of a global business environment. Personal Transferable Skills in Accounting Education illustrates how generic skills are being embedded and evaluated in the accounting curriculum by academics from a range of perspectives. Each chapter provides an account of how the challenge of incorporating generic skills in the accounting curriculum within particular educational environments has been addressed. The challenges involved in generic skills development in higher education have not been limited to the accounting discipline. This book provides examples which potentially inform a wide range of discipline areas. Academics will benefit from reading the experiences of incorporating generic skills in the accounting curriculum from across the globe. This book was originally published as a themed issue of Accounting Education, an international journal.

The Interface of Accounting Education and Professional Training Elaine Evans, Roger Juchau, Richard M.S. Wilson, 2014-07-16 Over many decades, the global development of professional accounting education programmes has been undertaken by higher education institutions, professional accounting bodies, and employers. These institutions have sometimes co-operated and sometimes been in conflict over the education and/or training of future accounting professionals. These ongoing problems of linkage and closure between academic accounting education and professional training have new currency because of pressures from students and employers to move accounting preparation onto a more efficient economic and practical basis. The Interface of Accounting Education and Professional Training explores current elements of the interface between the academic education and professional training of accountants in Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, and the UK. It argues for a reassessment of the considerations and requirements for developing professional accounting programs which can make a student capable of being an accountant, the academy ready to be an accountant, the workplace and professional in being an accountant, the professional bodies. This book was originally published as a special issue of Accounting Education, An International Journal.

The SEC Speaks in ..., 2009

Accounting Education Research Richard M.S. Wilson, 2015-04-10 An annual prize is awarded for the best paper appearing in Accounting Education, an international journal, and this book contains the prize-winning papers for every year from 1992 to 2012. The journal's primary mission since the first issue was published in March 1992 has been to enhance the educational base of accounting practice, and all the papers in this book relate to that mission. These papers reporting on research studies undertaken by accounting education scholars from around the world build on research findings from the broader domain of education scholarship and embrace a wide array of topics including curriculum development pedagogic innovation improving the quality of learning and assessing learning outcomes Of particular interest are three themes each of which runs through several of the papers students approaches to learning and learning style preferences ethics and moral intensity and innovation within the accounting curriculum Accounting educators will find many ideas in the book to help them in enriching their work and accounting education researchers will be able to identify many points of departure for extending the studies on which the papers report whether comparatively or longitudinally This book is a compilation of papers originally published in Accounting Education an international journal
