Confluences John Cullen Gruesser, 2007 Confluences looks at the prospects for and the potential rewards of breaking down theoretical and disciplinary barriers that have tended to separate African American and postcolonial studies John Cullen Gruesser s study emphasizes the confluences among three major theories that have emerged in literary and cultural studies in the past twenty five years postcolonialism Henry Louis Gates Jr s Signifyin g and Paul Gilroy s black Atlantic For readers who may not be well acquainted with one or more of the three theories Gruesser provides concise introductions in the opening chapter In addition he urges those people working in postcolonial or African American literary studies to attempt to break down the boundaries that in recent years have come to isolate the two fields Gruesser then devotes a chapter to each theory examining one literary text that illustrates the value of the theoretical model a second text that extends the model in a significant way and a third text that raises one or more questions about the theory His examples are drawn from the writings of Salman Rushdie Jean Rhys V S Naipaul Walter Mosley Pauline Hopkins Toni Morrison Harry Dean Harriet Jacobs and Alice Walker Cautious not to conflate postcolonial and African American studies Gruesser encourages critics to embrace the black Atlantic s emphases on movement through space routes rather than roots and intercultural connections and to expand and where appropriate to emend Gilroy s efforts to bridge the two fields

Autochthonomies Myriam J. A. Chancy, 2020-03-01 In Autochthonomies Myriam J A Chancy engages readers in an interpretive journey She lays out a radical new process that invites readers to see creations by artists of African descent as legible within the context of African diasporic historical and cultural debates By invoking a transnational African diasporic lens and negotiating it through a lakou or yard space we can see such identities transfigured recognized and exchanged Chancy demonstrates how the process can examine the salient features of texts and art that underscore African diasporic sensibilities and render them legible What emerges is a potential for richer readings of African diasporic works that also ruptures the Manichean binary dynamics that have dominated previous interpretations of the material The result an enriching interpretive mode focused on the transnational connections between subjects of African descent as the central pole for reader investigation A bold challenge to established scholarship Autochthonomies ranges from Africa to Europe and the Americas to provide powerful new tools for charting the transnational interactions between African cultural producers and

Amid calls for greater accountability and ethical awareness efforts are being made within and beyond the industry chiefly in the cultural and education sectors to decentralize fashion to make the conception, creation and consumption of fashionable dress and appearance less western centric. Supporting this premise Hang Ups argues that purposeful and permanent change within the fashion industry and fashion education is more likely if it is understood how the contemporary industry became western centric. To institute effective change it is necessary to revert to first principles and understand how the fashion industry developed into what it is today. During a period when the concepts of fashion history and culture are being intensely scrutinized and with suggestions they are reaching their nadir, the imperative to understand the extent to which they relate and facilitate the presentation of people's fashionable bodies is urgent. Hang Ups explores the origins and consequences of the fashion industry's western centrism by focusing on nine binaries defined in the crucible of empire that continue to be sites of negotiation as the west's traditions and ideals are contested by different cultural perspectives and changing global realities.

Walter Mosley's Detective Novels: Agustín Reyes Torres, 2008 Basat en la perspectiva de la identitat, la consciència i la subjectivitat dels estudiosos negres com Stuart Hall, bell hooks, Cornel West, Henry Louis Gates Jr i W. I. B. Du Bois, al costat de l'enfocament postcolonial de crítics com Bill Ashcroft, Gareth Griffiths, Helen Tiffin i Homi Bhabha, entre d'altres, aquest llibre proporciona el marc teòric necessari per a analitzar les novel·les d'Easy Rawlins escrites per Walter Mosley. L'autor s'apropia de les convencions de la novel·la detectivesca per tal de representar la societat americana dels cinquanta i seixanta des d'una perspectiva marginal. La subjectivitat d'Easy Rawlins està determinada pel seu paper com a detectiu, la seva consciència postcolonial com a home negre que ha crescut en una societat dominada pels blancs i per la seua inclinació i defensa d'una forta cultura afroamericana.
