Recent Developments In The Archaeology Of The Peak District:

Recent Developments in the Archaeology of the Peak District Richard Hodges, Ken Smith, 1991-01 This collection of essays deals with topics that range from the Neolithic through to the post mediaeval period They discuss the advances in the understanding of the archaeology of the Peak District resulting from the increased fieldwork through the 1980s and set the direction for research in the coming decade The Archaeology of a Great Estate Nicola Bannister, John Barnatt, 2009-08-25 The Peak District is a historic upland landscape with a rich palimpsest of features which invoke the many generations of people who have inhabited the area The great estate of Chatsworth reflects the Peak in microcosm Its landscapes are diverse and contain many exceptional features including archaeological earthworks of medieval open fields and later enclosures in the park and prehistoric stone circles barrows fields and settlements on the Estate moorlands This book tells the story of the historic landscape and its archaeology it is a companion volume to Chatsworth A Landscape History Barnatt Williamson but in contrast to that book includes the whole of the Estate landscape including the extensive farmland and moorlands beyond the park and concentrates on visible archaeology and what it can tell us about the past The result is a fascinating in depth portrait of one of the major estates in Britain Challenging Preconceptions of the European Iron Age Wendy Morrison, 2022-06-20 This collection of essays by leading researchers in the archaeology of the European Iron Age pays tribute to Professor John Collis who since the 1960s has been involved in investigating and enriching our understanding of Iron Age society and crucially questioning the status quo of our narratives about the past Derbyshire Archaeological Journal, 1994 The Derbyshire Archaeological Journal, 2004 New Light on the Neolithic of Northern England Gill Hey, Paul Frodsham, 2021-01-13 These papers highlight recent archaeological work in Northern England in the commercial academic and community archaeology sectors which have fundamentally changed our perspective on the Neolithic of the area Much of this was new work and much is still not published has been overlooked in the national discourse The papers cover a wide geographical area from Lancashire north into the Scottish Lowlands recognising the irrelevance of the England Scotland Border They also take abroad chronological sweep from the Mesolithic Neolithic transition to the introduction of Beakers into the area The key themes are the nature of transition the need for a much improved chronological framework regional variation linked to landscape character links within northern England and with distant places the implications of new dating for our understanding the axe trade the changing nature of settlement and agriculture the character early Neolithic enclosures the need to integrate rock art into wider discourse Neolithic Houses in Northwest Europe and beyond Timothy Darvill, Julian Thomas, 2002-12-01 A digital reprint which makes available again the first publication of the Neolithic Studies Group containing papers given to a special colloquium on the structures of Neolithic Europe Contributions include Neolithic houses in mainland Britain and Ireland a skeptical view Julian Thomas Houses in context Building as process Alasdair Whittle A Central European Perspective Jonathon Last Neolithic can still be traced across the surface Drawing on the results of original survey and excavation An Upland Biography documents prehistoric activity across this area exploring the changing character of occupation from the Mesolithic to the Iron Age It also tacks back and forth between local detail and regional patterns to better understand the broader social worlds in which Gardom s Edge was set

The First Stones William Britnell, Alasdair Whittle, 2022-12-01 The First Stones brings together the results of recent research on the Neolithic long cairns lying in the shadow of the Black Mountains in south east Wales focusing upon Penywyrld and Gwernvale the two best known tombs within the group previously excavated in the 1970s Important results lie in both new site detail and reassessment of the wider context Small scale excavation geophysical survey and geological assessment at Penywyrld the largest of the Welsh long cairns gave further information about the distinctive external and internal architecture of the monument In turn this opened the opportunity to reassess the pre monument sequence at Gwernvale with re examination of both Mesolithic and Neolithic occupations including a timber structure and midden lithic and pottery assemblages and cereal remains The frame for wider reassessment is given by fresh chronological modeling both of the monuments themselves suggesting a sequence from Penywyrld and Pipton to Ty Isaf and Gwernvale probably spanning the 38th to the 36th or 35th centuries cal BC and of early Neolithic activity in south Wales and the Marches probably beginning in the 39th century cal BC A detailed study of the major assemblages of human remains from the Black Mountains tombs includes evidence for diet trauma and lifestyles of the populations represented Recent isotope analysis of human remains from the tombs is also reviewed implying social mobility and migration within local populations during the early Neolithic The First Stones makes a significant contribution to the study of tomb building treatment of the dead place making the relationship of monuments to landscape local and regional identities connections and affiliations across southern Britain and the adjacent continent and Neolithization in western Britain Viewed within the context of tombs within the Cotswold Severn tradition as a whole it leads to an appreciation of the local and regional distinctiveness of architecture and mortuary practice exhibited by the tombs in this area of south east Wales emerging as part of the intake of a significant inland area in the early centuries of the Neolithic

English Heritage Book of the Peak District John Barnatt, 1997

Pecsaetna Phil Sidebottom, 2020-09-16 This book is intended to pull together our current knowledge of the lost group of people called the Pecsaetna literally meaning the Peak Sitters by synthesising more recent historical and archaeological research towards a better understanding of their activities territory and identity This group of people is shrouded in the mists of the so called Dark Ages and are only known to us by the chance survival of less than a handful of documents Since the mid 20th century valuable work has been done to identify former Anglo Saxon estates in the Peak from the analysis of charters and from the Domesday survey together with recent wider historical analysis In addition some have also attempted reconstructions of geographical territories from the Tribal Hidage the document which first mentions the Pecsaetna To this historical analysis can be added further archaeological evidence which ranges from Anglo

Saxon barrow investigation in the limestone Peak District to studies into the geographical distributions of free standing stone monuments of the Anglo Saxon and Anglo Scandinavian periods It is this latter study that has prompted the writer to attempt this study

Neolithic Landscapes Peter Topping, 2002-12-01 Reprint of another classic Neolithic Studies Group volume It is a sign of the intellectual health of a specialist study group that its deliberations can generate collections of papers of general interest The topical issue of landscape is addressed although with the added complication of attempting to focus on the domestic as opposed to ceremonial aspects of Neolithic life

The Rock-Art Landscapes of Rombalds Moor, West Yorkshire Vivien Deacon, 2020-04-30 This landscape study of the rock art of Rombalds Moor West Yorkshire considers views of and from the sites In an attempt to understand the rock art landscapes of prehistory the study considered the environment of the moor and its archaeology along with the ethnography from the whole circumpolar region

Defining a Regional Neolithic Kenneth Brophy, G. Barclay, 2009-05-29 This book is the ninth published collection of papers from a Neolithic Studies Group day conference and it continues the Group's aim of presenting research on the Neolithic of all parts of the British Isles The topic regional diversity is an important theme in Neolithic studies today and embraces traditions of monumentality settlement patterns and material culture The contributors to this volume address issues of regionality through a series of case studies that focus not on the traditional cores of Wessex and Orkney but rather on other areas the Irish Sea Zone Ireland Scotland Yorkshire and the Midlands The volume commences with an introduction Gordon Barclay that expands on the initial impetus and research questions behind the 2001 conference this volume is based on This is followed by a more abstract contribution analysing that most familiar of tools for the display of regional archaeological data the distribution map Kenneth Brophy Two papers follow that address the role material culture plays in both defining and characterising regional trends one addressing the distinctive regionality of querns in the Neolithic Fiona Roe the other a wide ranging analysis of high status material culture and monumentality in Yorkshire Roy Loveday A series of regional studies follows with three papers focusing explicitly on a range of evidence from the Irish Sea zone Vicki Cummings Tom Clare and Aaron Watson and Richard Bradley A large and detailed body of evidence from the East Midlands is also considered Patrick Clay and the volume is completed by two papers considering very different regional scales in Ireland At a more localised level a series of islands off the east coast of Ireland are discussed in a local and wider context Gabriel Cooney and a still wider scale approach is taken to landscape and routeways across Ireland as a whole Carleton Jones These papers do not simply set up rival distinctive regions but rather suggest that local regional and national traditions cross cut and combine in different ways in different places The interaction between regions is as significant as intra regional distinctiveness This volume addresses how we might begin to develop a more nuanced vision of the Neolithic of the British Isles

The Peak District John Barnatt, Ken Smith, 2004 The Peak District Britain's first national park has some of Britain's richest archaeological landscapes This new edition draws on the extensive archaeological research that has taken place in the Peak since 1997 and provides maps and interpretations It tells the story of a famous landscape s evolution Prehistoric Britain Joshua Pollard,2008-06-23 Informed by the latest research and in depth analysis Prehistoric Britain provides students and scholars alike with a fascinating overview of the development of human societies in Britain from the Upper Paleolithic to the end of the Iron Age Offers readers an incisive synthesis and much needed overview of current research themes Includes essays from leading scholars and professionals who address the very latest trends in current research Explores the interpretive debates surrounding major transitions in British prehistory The Origins and Spread of Domestic Plants in Southwest Asia and Europe Sue Colledge,James Conolly,2016-06-16 Leading scholars demonstrate the importance of archaeobotanical evidence in the understanding of the spread of agriculture in southwest Asia and Europe
