Reading for History in the Damascus Document Maxine L. Grossman, 2018-12-24. Scholars tend to view the Damascus Document as a historical source, but a reading of the text in light of contemporary audience-oriented literary criticism finds its emphasis in the ideological construction of history and communal identity rather than in the preservation of a historical record. An introduction to contemporary literary criticism is followed by a series of thematic readings focusing on historical narrative, priestly imagery and gender in the covenant community. Each theme is examined in terms of its potential for multiple, sometimes contradictory, interpretations and for its place in the larger sectarian discourse. This study offers an alternative approach to the historiography of ancient Jewish sectarianism, acknowledging the presence of competing claims to shared traditions and the potential for changes in textual interpretation over time or among diverse communities.

Envisioning Landscapes, Making Worlds Stephen Daniels, Dydia DeLyser, J. Nicholas Entrikin, Doug Richardson, 2012-03-15. The past decade has witnessed a remarkable resurgence in the intellectual interplay between geography and the humanities in both academic and public circles. The metaphors and concepts of geography now permeate literature, philosophy and the arts. Concepts such as space, place, landscape, mapping and territory have become pervasive as conceptual frameworks and core metaphors in recent publications by humanities scholars and well-known writers. Envisioning Landscapes, Making Worlds contains over twenty-five contributions from leading scholars who have engaged this vital intellectual project from various perspectives, both inside and outside of the field of geography. The book is divided into four sections representing different modes of examining the depth and complexity of human meaning invested in maps attached to landscapes and embedded in the spaces and places of modern life. The topics covered range widely and include interpretations of space, place and landscape in literature and the visual arts, philosophical reflections on geographical knowledge, cultural imagination in scientific exploration and travel accounts, and expanded geographical understanding through digital and participatory methodologies The clashing and blending of cultures caused by globalization and the new technologies that profoundly alter human environmental experience suggest new geographical narratives and representations that are explored here by a multidisciplinary group of authors This book is essential reading for students scholars and interested general readers seeking to understand the new synergies and creative interplay emerging from this broad intellectual engagement with meaning and geographic experience design Consumption and Wealth in Luke's Travel Narrative James A. Metzger, 2007 While several recent studies have suggested that the Gospel of Luke recommends generous almsgiving or a relatively benign sharing ethic that mimics existing redistributive measures in early Roman Palestine this book argues that a much more subversive reading of the Gospel's wealth and possessions traditions is defensible Reading Sensations in Early Modern England K. Craik, 2007-04-06 How did Renaissance literature affect readers' minds, bodies, and souls? In what ways did the history of literary experience overlap with the history of humours and emotions? This book argues that a new aesthetic vocabulary based on the theory of the passions was formulated in the Renaissance to describe the affective power of literature Remembrance of Things Past? Michael J. Thate, 2013 In this book Michael J. Thate offers an experiment in reception criticism in its consideration of the formation and reception of the historical Jesus discourse. He also attempts to historicize Leben Jesu Forschung within debates and narratives of secularization. These two foci guide the book through its two parts. First, Thate explicates Schweitzer's dominant archival function in Leben Jesu Forschung while aiming to make fragile the grand architect's receptive hegemony. Then he combines critical memory theory and other theoretical readings of the material in an attempt to refocus the study of the historical Jesus as early Christian memory politics in the service of identity explication. He attempts to problematize Schweitzer's legacy of a tidy systematic approach in which much of historical Jesus scholarship continues to operate.
