how British NGOs charted a path to neoliberalism in their pursuit of ethical markets Between the 1950s and 1990s nonprofits sought to establish an alternative to Keynesianism through their welfare and development programs Encouraging the fair trade of commodities and goods through microfinance consumer boycotts and corporate social responsibility these programs emphasized decentralization privatization and entrepreneurship Tehila Sasson tells the stories of the activists economists politicians and businessmen who reimaged the marketplace as a workshop for global reform She reveals how their ideas though commonly associated with conservative neoliberal policies were part of a nonprofit driven endeavor by the liberal left to envision markets as autonomous and humanizing spaces facilitating ethical relationships beyond the impersonal realm of the state Drawing on dozens of newly available repositories from nongovernmental international national and business archives The Solidarity Economy reconstructs the political economy of these markets from handicrafts and sugar to tea and coffee shedding critical light on the postimperial origins of neoliberalism
