found on a small slab of dolomite at the Wonderwerk Cave south of Kuruman It has a radiocarbon date of c 10 200 BP Rock paintings are found in the mountainous parts of the subcontinent in abundant rock shelters and shallow overhangs while engravings were generally made on the interior plateau of South Africa There are about 1600 paintings in South Africa In this assignment I will focus on the meaning of rock paintings on the specific symbols and their importance for the early people In Chapter Two I provide a short introduction about the artists and their methods Then I will explain the three important approaches to reveal the meaning of rock art described by Lewis Williams and give some examples of misinterpretations of rock paintings Chapter Three deals with the spiritual world and shamanism in the society of the Bushmen In the fourth chapter the state of trance and the trance dance are described which are important key parts for understanding rock art Chapter Five shall point out the symbolism of the eland antelope in addition to animal power in general This symbol is of great importance and represented relatively frequent in the art These symbols and the discussion of their meanings seem to be a representative selection to help better understand the spiritual background of south african rock art and its meaning

The Archaeology of Rock-Art Christopher Chippindale, Paul S. C. Taçon, 1998 Pictures painted and carved in caves and on open rock surfaces are amongst our loveliest relics from prehistory This pioneering set of sparkling essays goes beyond guesses as to what the pictures mean instead exploring how we can reliably learn from rock art as a material record of distant times in short rock art as archaeology Sometimes contact period records offer some direct insight about indigenous meaning so we can learn in that informed way More often we have no direct record and instead have to use formal methods to learn from the evidence of the pictures themselves The book's eighteen papers range wide in space and time from the Palaeolithic of Europe to nineteenth century Australia Using varied approaches within the consistent framework of informed and proven methods they make key advances in using the striking and reticent evidence of rock art to archaeological benefit

Claiming Art, Reclaiming Space, 1999 Weapons and Tools in Rock Art Ana M. S. Bettencourt, Manuel Santos-Estévez, Hugo Aluísio Sampaio, 2021-03-03 Weapons and tools are frequently found depicted in rock art in many parts of the globe and different periods and in varying social contexts This collection of papers by leading rock art specialists examines the subjective and metaphorical value of weapons and tools in art the actions that created them and their contexts It also takes into account that such representations incorporate and transmit some kind of understanding about the world and the relationship between objects and humans Contributors analyse objects and weapons as status symbols as evidences of cultural contacts as ideological devices etc Divided into regional sections which for once do not focus on Scandinavia chapters deal with the representations of weapons and certain kinds of tools such as axes and sickles in different prehistoric protohistoric and traditional community contexts all over the world Attention focuses on rock art but also looks at stelae and statue menhirs as well as other kinds of container or vehicle for this kind of depiction The major concern is to discuss the possible meanings of these embodied signs in different areas and periods since meanings are permeable both to time and space Papers either centre their attention in broader approaches based on a specific area region or people or focus on particular case studies Seventeenth-century Dutch and Flemish Paintings in South Africa, 1994 The Oxford

Handbook of African Archaeology Peter Mitchell, Paul Lane, 2013-07-04 Africa has the longest and arguably the most diverse archaeological record of any of the continents It is where the human lineage first evolved and from where Homo sapiens spread across the rest of the world Later it witnessed novel experiments in food production and unique trajectories to urbanism and the organisation of large communities that were not always structured along strictly hierarchical lines Millennia of engagement with societies in other parts of the world confirm Africa s active participation in the construction of the modern world while the richness of its history ethnography and linguistics provide unusually powerful opportunities for constructing interdisciplinary narratives of Africa s past This Handbook provides a comprehensive and up to date synthesis of African archaeology covering the entirety of the continent s past from the beginnings of human evolution to the archaeological legacy of European colonialism As well as covering almost all periods and regions of the continent it includes a mixture of key methodological and theoretical issues and debates and situates the subject s contemporary practice within the discipline s history and the infrastructural challenges now facing its practitioners Bringing together essays on all these themes from over seventy contributors many of them living and working in Africa it offers a highly accessible contemporary account of the subject for use by scholars and students of not only archaeology but also history anthropology and other disciplines
